British Launch Air Assault On Foe In Malaya

Three-Way Attack Hurled at Wing Of MacArthur's Army In Luzon

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — General Douglas MacArthur's forces today fought stubbornly against a fierce Japanese attack by infantry, artillery and aircraft directed by superior enemy forces against the right wing of their northern Batan province lines.

The American and Filipino troops, the war department communique admitted, are greatly outnumbered by the Japanese assault troops.

"A heavy Japanese attack against the right flank of the American and Philippine troops in the Batan peninsula is now in progress," the war department reported. "This attack is well supported by aircraft and artillery.

"The assailants greatly outnumber the defending troops. However, our soldiers are stubbornly contesting the attempted advance."

Mention by the communique of the "right flank" of MacArthur's lines indicated that the Japanese assault is being launched in the Hermosa area in an effort to drive down the eastern Batan coastal road toward Mariveles, communications port through which MacArthur maintains contact with Corregidor fortress.

Singapore Admits Enemy Advance As Planes Hit Ships, Barges

(By International News Service)

SINGAPORE — Heavy death-dealing air attacks on Japanese ships, barges and land transport columns were announced by the British Far Eastern command today.

At the same time, a communique admitted Japanese forces have gained a footing on the south bank of the Muar river in western Malaya, about 110 miles northwest of Singapore.

The river forms the left flank of the "Pownall line," along which a major battle is expected to develop between Japanese and British-Australian forces in the near future.

The communique conceded the Japs have occupied Gemas, 110 miles north of Singapore and also reported two new Japanese air attacks on Singapore which caused about 150 civilian casualties.

Heavy casualties were declared to have been inflicted on the Japs when RAF planes pounded launches and barges loaded with troops near the mouth of the Muar river.

Likewise, severe damage was inflicted on Japanese shipping off Malacca, the war bulletin stated.

"Throughout yesterday contact with the enemy was slight on the eastern part of the front, activity on both sides being confined main-

CAPTURE: Halfaya Pass Falls As 5,000 Axis Men Surrender

(By Associated Press)

Halfaya pass, Axis stronghold on the Egyptian-Libyan desert frontier, fell to imperial siege troops this morning with the unconditional surrender of more than 5,500 of its hard-pressed garrison.

Thus the British smashed a German-Italian attempt to parallel the British holdout stand at Tobruk—and thus, too, the British won access to the main coastal route of supply to their advance assault forces which have pursued the main body of the Axis forces 300 miles farther west.

Axis control of steep-sided "Hellfire" pass had forced the British to move their reinforcements and supplies over a tortuous desert detour almost 100 miles to the south.

The British by-passed Halfaya Nov. 18 when they drove into Libya for a second test of desert strength with the Axis. The Axis garrison withstood a battering for almost two months.

The fall of the stronghold, announced by the British Middle East general headquarters, was the third time it had switched hands in the back and forth surge of North African fighting.

The British seized the pass Dec. 16, 1940, in their first drive into Libya. The Germans won it back April 14, 1941, in their swift counter offensive.

For weeks before its final capitulation the Halfaya garrison had been blasted repeatedly from the air and attacked again and again

SHOWDOWN: Churchill Back In England, Faces Critics on War

(By United Press)

LONDON—Prime Minister Winston Churchill returned to England by flying boat today, after his momentous conference with President Roosevelt at Washington, to face an immediate showdown with a critical parliament on the grave Allied strategic position in the Far East.

The prime minister was expected to take the earliest opportunity to address the house of commons on his united nations agreement with President Roosevelt and his talks with Prime Minister William Lyon MacKenzie King at Ottawa.

It was believed also that one of his first official acts would be the most vigorous shake-up of his war cabinet and the high command since he entered office as the Germans entered the lowlands in 1940.

Churchill landed at Plymouth this morning from the Great British airways flying boat in which he had crossed the Atlantic from Bermuda.

With him were Lord Beaverbrook, the war cabinet supply minister; Admiral Sir Dudley Pound, first sea lord and chief of navy staff; Air Chief Marshal Sir Charles Portal, chief of air staff, and Sir Charles Wilson.

A few hours in advance of Churchill's arrival the foreign office had announced that Sir Stafford Crips, British ambassador to Russia, had been succeeded by Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, ambassador to China. It had been

MAYOR DENIES OUSTER MOVE, CHIEF ASSERTS

Seeburger Says Locke Told Him Resignation Was 'All Crafton's Idea.'

MAYOR SHUNS INTERVIEW

Refuses Reporter's Request For Joint Meeting With Crafton on Issue.

Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger today said that during a conference with Mayor William J. Locke yesterday the mayor placed responsibility for the move to force the chief's resignation on the shoulders of Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton.

Seeburger, who refused to resign upon Crafton's request Thursday, said that after several unsuccessful attempts in which he had been told that the mayor "was busy" or "in conference," he finally managed to see the mayor yesterday at 3:30 p. m.

When asked by the fire chief for the reasons for the demanded resignation, Seeburger said the mayor disclaimed all knowledge of the affair and said that it was "all Crafton's idea."

The mayor refused a request by The News-Journal for a joint interview with himself and Crafton. They were both in the mayor's office at the time. A reporter asked to see the two men together to get statements on Seeburger's remarks. Mayor Locke refused to see the reporter but said he would "send Crafton out."

The mayor refused the request several times, declaring he was busy, and had to officiate at a wedding. The wedding was not arranged beforehand and the reporter's request for an interview with Locke and Crafton was made at least 30 minutes before the arrival of the wedding party.

Crafton would make no comment on the matter, saying that he could have discussed it in a joint conference with the mayor but that he "did not care to make a separate statement."

Seeburger said he approached the mayor because Crafton had told him that "the powers that be" demanded his resignation.

She Tells How It Feels to Collect $5,600 Bank Night

Did you wonder yesterday how it would feel to win the $1,400 bank night award?

One Mansfield woman knows the answer today. She collected, not the $1,400 offered at the three Warner Brothers theaters, but a grand total of $5,600, because she bought four bank night insurance tickets.

The lucky winner of the biggest bank night dividend to date in Mansfield was Mrs. Charlotte Robison, 189 Coul avenue, wife of Howard Robison, a waiter at Schmutzler's cafe. The previous record, including insurance payments, was $5,200 which went to Fred Seith of Mansfield last fall.

Mrs. Robison was so excited today she could hardly talk. Her mind, she said, has been "going in circles" ever since the news came.

The family, which includes an 11-year-old daughter, Betty Irene, fifth grader at West Fifth street school, planned to spend last evening visiting Mrs. Robison's mother. But the battery was down and the car wouldn't start, so they came back in the house.

"My husband went out back for a bucket of coal and I was sitting

Victim of Airliner Crash

Carole Lombard, one of Hollywood's favorite actresses and a favorite with film audiences everywhere, met death last night 8,700 feet up on the side of a rugged Nevada mountain when the plane in which she was returning from a defense stamp drive in Indianapolis crashed 30 miles from Las Vegas. Twenty-one others died in the crash, including Miss Lombard's mother and 15 army officers and men. In private life the actress was the wife of actor Clark Gable who last night joined rescue workers battling up the mountain toward the plane's wreckage.

DENIES CHARGE

Mansfield Lawyer Bound Over In Embezzlement Case.

Taken into custody by police on a forgery charge, Raymond J. Brown, Mansfield attorney, pleaded innocent before Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch and was bound over to the grand jury under $2,000 bond.

Brown, who came to Mansfield from Cleveland about seven years ago, is accused of forging the name of Roy Ohler, Mansfield, one of his clients, to a $20 check. Prosecutor Harold Lutz, said however, that Brown admitted in a written statement that he forged Ohler's name to nearly 90 checks for a total of $758 during the past year.

Brown was legal counsel for Ohler who is administrator of the estate of the late John H. Gettleman. Ohler told the prosecutor that the checks were written without his knowledge. Brown was attempting to arrange bond following the hearing shortly before noon today.

Just before the municipal court charge was filed today a committee of the Richland County Bar association filed charges of misconduct and moral turpitude against Brown in common pleas court. Hearing on the bar association's charges was set for 1 p. m. Friday before Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston.

TACKLE TASK OF CONVERTING U. S. INDUSTRY

Knudsen, Nelson Begin Job of Building Greatest War Production Machine.

WILL SPEED OUTPUT

Former General Motors Head Assigned to Expediting Of National Program.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Two big, soft-spoken American businessmen today began the giant task of converting industrial efforts of the United States into the greatest war production machine ever conceived.

Donald M. Nelson, former mail order house executive, now America's war production czar, was charged with organizing peacetime industries into a vast machine for production of planes, guns, tanks, warships and other war materials.

William ("Big Bill") Knudsen, one-time head of General Motors, was assigned the tremendous job of expediting the war production program as a lieutenant-general and director of the war department's sweeping munitions program.

With the help of the two men and their lieutenants, President Roosevelt hopes America's peacetime industries will produce 185,000 airplanes, 120,000 tanks, 18,000,000 tons of shipping and 55,000 anti-aircraft guns in the next 18 months under a $128,000,000,000 war program to defeat the Axis.

President Roosevelt, in an executive order, gave Nelson virtual dictatorial powers over the nation's war industries program—authority second only to his own—and the new production "boss" wasted no time in settling down to work on the immediate major tasks before him.

Foremost among the jobs are: 1. Conversion of peacetime industries to full war time produc-

BABY SAVED

Mother, Carried From Burning House, Bears Child.

SEATTLE, Wash.—(UP)—Physicians today saved the life of a baby, born to a critically burned woman during the night while her husband and small son lay dead in the charred ruins of their home.

The mother, Mrs. Florence Mellang, 28, was too close to death herself to be told of the death of her husband and son, Kasper Mellang, 38, and James Henry, 2.

Neighbors said Mellang carried his wife from the blazing house and then ran back into the flames in a vain attempt to rescue his son.

Craft Plunges Into Mountain Near Las Vegas

Mother of Actress, 15 Army Men Also On Board; Gable Reported Flying To Scene; Rescuers Start for Wreckage Spotted by Pilot.

BULLETIN

LAS VEGAS, Nev.—(UP)—Film Star Clark Gable joined ground crews of hardrock miners, Indian trail blazers and soldiers hewing a path up Table Rock mountain today in search of the wreckage of a huge air transport in which his actress wife, Carole Lombard, and 21 others were believed to have perished.

(By International News Service)

LOS ANGELES—The wreckage of a TWA airliner carrying Carole Lombard, famed screen beauty, and 21 other persons, has been sighted 100 feet from the crest of Table mountain, 30 miles southwest of Las Vegas, Nevada, officials of the airline reported in Los Angeles early today.

The spot where the wreckage was sighted is 8,700 feet up the side of the mountain and rescuers were not expected to reach the spot until noon.

TWA officials said no hope was held that any of the plane's occupants had survived.

Besides a crew of three, the plane carried 19 passengers.

In addition to Miss Lombard, wife of Actor Clark Gable, other passengers included her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Knight Peters, Otto Winkler, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer publicity agent, Lois Hamilton of Detroit and 15 army officers and men.

When the accident occurred at 7:30 p. m. yesterday, Miss Lombard was returning from Indianapolis, where she had gone to participate in a state-wide defense bond rally.

The plane, late at the time, landed at Las Vegas for refueling at 6:30 p. m. It took off for Los Angeles at 7:07 p. m.

That was the last heard from it.

The next report came from O. E. Saylor, purchasing agent of the Blue Dimond mine, near Arden.

He telephoned TWA headquarters at Las Vegas and reported: "A plane just crasded into Table mountain. There was a terrific explosion."

TWA officials said they had been advised that the plane did not explode in mid-air.

Immediately after getting the report, TWA at Los Angeles contacted an east bound plane of its line piloted by Art Cheyney.

He circled over the area and spotted the wreck at 8:10 p. m.

Hollywood Sound Stages Are Saddened at Death of Beloved Actress.

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
(UP Hollywood Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD — Death of Carole Lombard, girl of the hard boiled chatter and the tender heart, in the fiery wreckage of a transport plane saddened the sound stages today and caused many a fellow performer to weep.

No other current actress was so universally loved; the death of no other glamour girl since Jean Harlow had such a profound effect on the movie makers, sentimentalists all.

Clark Gable, her husband of three years, was waiting at the Los Angeles airport last night for her to arrive with her mother, Mrs. Jane Peters, and their friend and press agent, Otto Winkler, from a defense bond selling expedition to Indianapolis.

Attendants told Gable the plane would be delayed. He returned to the ranch home he built for his bride in the San Fernando valley, only to hear the worst.

Rio Delegates 'Chat' on How Far They'll Aid U. S.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil—(AP)—Delegates to the third consultative conference of foreign ministers of the 21 American republics put their heads together today in many hotel room chats which probably will decide how far the rest of the Americas will go to help Uncle Sam whip the Axis powers.

The day was officially listed on the parley's calendar as "social," but most of the leading delegates took advantage of the lull in business to seek support for their points of view.

Eight resolutions submitted at the first business session yesterday included one which might make or break the conference—a proposal for unanimous rupture of relations with the Axis.

Trucker Killed at Shelby In First 1942 Traffic Death

SHELBY — A man tentatively identified as Arthur Myers of Norwalk, became Richland county's first 1942 traffic victim shortly before noon today. He was killed instantly when the truck he was driving was struck by a westbound New York Central passenger train at the West Main street crossing here.

Struck by a flying piece of metal, Mrs. Emma Bistline, 16 Walnut street, was taken to Memorial hospital. Attendants said her condition was critical. Police said she was waiting at the crossing when the accident occurred.

This date last Year—1

Police were told that the truck driver had waited for an eastbound freight train to pass and then had driven directly into the path of the passenger train, apparently failing to observe it approaching from the opposite direction.

The light vehicle, loaded with apples, was carried down the track. Produce and auto parts were scattered along the right of way.

Witnesses told officers that flasher lights at the crossing were working at the time of the accident.

Identification of Myers was made by police from license registration card found in the cab of the truck.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — Both the report of the Truman committee investigating national defense and the labor leaders who originally proposed the Reuther plan severely criticize the automobile industry for reluctance in converting their plants to war production.

Gen. Johnson.

The attack comes little short of blaming the automobile industry for our failure to provide both ourselves and our allies with the absolutely necessary air superiority which we and they must have for victory.

The most scathing attack is by the labor leaders. It is based on an assertion that, long ago, Mr. Walter P. Reuther foresaw the present dilemma and made suggestions for a conversion plan which would have avoided it.

Now, based on the assertion and the fact that the coming complete cessation of automobile manufacture is going to create an unemployment of upwards of 1,000,000 men, Mr. Reuther feels that the government and the industry should continue to pay these workers $30 a week until complete conversion of the motor plants to tank, plane and gun production can absorb them in regular employment. The theory is that government (OPM) and the industry is to blame for not foreseeing what he did and therefore should pay the damages.

It is true that Mr. Reuther first proposed (as I recall in December, 1940) that unused plants, floor-space and machine tools be at once utilized for war production. There was and is a great deal of such space in the automobile centers — companies that couldn't keep up with their competition and had to close their plants.

I am unable to find, in looking back through newspaper files that the original proposal, which was repeated in various forms until Aug., 1941, ever suggested shutting down the automobile industry or even reducing its production. Since August, Mr. Reuther has become increasingly specific.

The truth of the matter is that neither the government, nor labor, nor industry, even dimly foresaw the startling effect of what has happened at Pearl Harbor and in the Far East. During most of that time the whole country was told that we would not enter the war or send troops abroad.

When the Japanese aggression knocked to smithereens the very basis on which those hopes were built, we all faced an entirely different situation. It was time for a new deal with a vengeance.

Organized labor is politically powerful and can always make its voice heard. But if we are to have justice in this great sacrificial war effort, no special group however vocal should be excused from bearing its burdens as the demands of war may apportion them.

Labor in the automobile industry is going to be hard hit by this temporary shut-down. But it is not the only group that will feel this whip-lash of sacrifice cut to the very bone.

Almost the entire wholesale and retail distribution trades will see their business dwindle to a fraction. Hundreds of thousands of independent merchants and manufacturers will go to the wall—losing everything. Every family, through priorities, restrictions and taxes, will see its living standards lowered, sometimes to a bare subsistence basis. If, as reported, we are to raise an army of 10,000,000, a large proportion of our male population will have to give up perhaps years of their lives and, in many cases, life itself.

DECLARES PAST GIVES HINT OF WHAT'S TO COME

Book Fair Speaker Says Our Rights Were Not Won by Men Who Doubted.

Declaring that "we can estimate our future by our past," Miss Dorsha Hayes, author of "The American Primer," answered the question asked by her subject, "Can Our Heritage Shape Things to Come?" when speaking before a Mansfield audience of 150 last night.

"Our rights as citizens were not won by men who doubted America," said the author, who appeared at the Mansfield Public Library as a highlight of the Book Fair.

She recalled the achievements of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln.

Challenging the propaganda that our enemies would like to have us believe—that democracy is too weak to fight our problems, Miss Hayes said, "We're a pretty tough bunch of scrapers and we know we can fight the war and win."

Terming the propaganda spread by the enemy, "a deadly weapon," Miss Hayes emphasized the necessity of "having our answers ready," whenever confronted with these false ideas. "Every time we think these enemies think as we do, we are wrong," she said "Talk as the enemy knows it, is a trick, a way of fooling people."

"Reason speaks out for democracy," continued the speaker. "The government of the people, by the people and for the people is the only government that Reason can sanction. Dictatorship appeals to lies."

The speaker said that in her belief "war is a disaster of such magnitude that the only other disaster that can equal it is the loss of freedom and progress," such as would result under dictator-rule.

She urged her hearers to assume full responsibilities as citizens and "have faith in our belief, hope in our future and charity for each other, for the future is in our hands."

Miss Hayes' lecture was sponsored by the Memorial Library Board as the latter's contribution ot the Book Fair. The speaker was introduced by Miss Lois MacKellar, librarian, who also announced that the Book Fair would continue through Sunday.

The fire chief said that when he asked Crafton who "the powers that be" were that Crafton said "the mayor and other people."

Seeburger said that the mayor also denied issuing a statement that the fire chief had been negligent in not preparing a civilian defense fire program or a training program for his department. Seeburger said that he heard this statement yesterday and that it had been quoted as being said by the mayor. The fire chief said that Locke denied making the statement.

Although Crafton would make no comment today, he admitted that the mayor had discussed the matter of asking Seeburger to resign.

The fire chief said that although he would confer with Crafton to check with Locke's remarks that he intended to take no action until written charges were preferred against him.

"I have no idea what they can charge, however," said Seeburger. "Neither of the men appeared at the civilian defense meeting last night. I had intended to talk to them together."

Seeburger has served with the Mansfield fire department for 31 years, being chief for the past nine years.

The fire chief said that the civilian defense board had asked him to postpone any arrangements for firefighting squads until enough volunteers have signed up. As for the training of the regular men, Seeburger said that the administration had denied him training apparatus from time to time.

HUNTERS, ANGLERS IN OHIO PAY OUT $4,000,000 FOR LICENSES

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Ohio anglers and nimrods poured $4,004,331 into coffers of the conservation department for hunting and fishing licenses in the period from Jan. 1 1936 to May 1, 1941, State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson reported today.

The biggest year was 1938, when revenues totaled $885,405. Revenues for the other years were $598,939 in 1936; $794,322 in 1937; $858,785 in 1939 and $866,878 in 1940.

Bulk of the revenue came from hunting licenses which produced $2,587,550 and resident fishing licenses with $1,112,194. The rod and reel account, reported in 1936 and 1937 only, produced $213,503. Non-resident hunting and fishing licenses produced only about $30,000 in the entire period.

The year 1940 showed the greatest activity among anglers, the fising licenses yielding $318,566 while nimrods paid $556,075 in 1938 for the privilege of doing a shooting business with b'rer rabbit and Johnny Squirrel and their cousins.

Ferguson's report showed, also, that 457 minnow dealers paid license fees of $2,285 in 1940. Eighty-eight propagation permits produced $440 and 24 non-resident fur buyers paid $1.200 in permit fees.

In the same year, Lake Erie commercial fishermen paid $24,481 with $16,768 of this sum coming from trap net operators.

Few discrepancies were found in the reports of the many clubs, associations, agents, clerks and stores handling the licenses for the department.

But Red Cross Says It'll Still Accept Donations.

With the Richland county chapter of the Red Cross prepared to close the war emergency fund office in the Farmers bank building today, a call was extended to potential contributors throughout the county to send their gifts to the Red Cross executive offices at 11½ West Fourth street.

"Although we're vacating the war fund headquarters to make way for other defense activities the Red Cross will receive war fund contributions as long as donations are made," L. B. Hamilton, co-chairman of the fund raising campaign, announced.

The war fund stood today at $10,379.75 as gifts from two Mansfield residents, out of town for the winter, and a business firm swelled the total. Richland Auto Parts company contributed $100 as did Louis Olsen, now located in Phoenix, Ariz. A. L. Wilkinson sent a check for $10 from Coral Gables.

Tonight's benefit dance sponsored at the Eagles hall by the Italian-American Citizens' committee is also expected to increase the total. Dancing will begin at 8 p. m. and continue until 1 a. m. A floor show and concessions will be added attractions.

For some reason Hardy said he got the idea that the class of 25 from the Perfection Bed Springs company would be composed of women workers and he therefore negotiated for a training room at the Y. W. C. A. and also for a woman teacher. But although everybody was surprised at the arrangements all the way around everything was perfectly satisfactory and the men's class decided to continue training at the Y. W. where it started.

LEADERS SEE LIKELIHOOD OF COMPROMISES

Admit Need to Overcome Farm Revolt, But Feel Sure of Halt In Cost Increases.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Administration leaders on Capitol Hill today expressed confidence that President Roosevelt will win his fight against enactment of a price-fixing bill which might permit a sharp rise in the cost of living, while conceding some compromises must be granted to overcome the farm revolt in congress.

Although both houses and senate were in adjournment over the week-end, congressional conferees met today in an effort to reach agreement on the price-fixing bill. A final accord by Monday or Tuesday was forecast by Sen. Taft (R., Ohio), one of the senate conferees.

President Roosevelt's followers on the conference committee were battling to kill the O'Mahoney-Russell provision, written into the bill by a rebellious senate at the instance of its farm bloc leaders. This provision would tie farm prices to wage levels, and its opponents charged it would permit a 20 per cent or higher increase in the cost of living.

The president also opposed the Bankhead amendment, likewise adopted by the senate, which would give Secretary of Agriculture Wickard power to veto any change in farm commodity prices. Administrationists however, rather indicated this provision might be accepted by the conferees as a measure of compromise to pacify the farm bloc.

A new war powers bill, meanwhile, was introduced in the senate as both branches planned action next week on other war legislation.

The program includes:

1. Senate and house approval of a conference report on the bill authorizing a $100,000,000 fund for civilian defense, with the house ready to reverse its former vote giving the war department power to spend the money.

2. Senate action, about Tuesday, on a house bill giving the federal communications commission authority to take over wire communications for military purposes.

Final approval of the civil defense fund is regarded as one of the steps to be taken by congress before Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia resigns as director of civilian defense, LaGuardia recently announced that he would make up his mind about quiting OCD after congress passed this bill and another to take care of injured air raid wardens. He said he might quit as mayor, and also that he might enter the army, but congress expects him to quit as civilian defense director.

JAPS OPEN NEW ASSAULT UPON LUZON FORCES

Use Artillery, Infantry and Air Power In Attack on MacArthur Army.

The language of the communique—particularly its failure to state whether MacArthur's forces were maintaining their forward lines against the Japanese—seemed to indicate that the heavy pressure of the Japanese in the past three days may have made some inroads into MacArthur's carefully prepared positions.

Apparently finding that MacArthur's field fortifications and artillery fire were too strong for frontal penetration without great losses, the Japanese sent small bodies of picked men across the hills and deep forestation of northern Batan in an effort to encircle the American lines and snap their communications.

There were Japanese reports—thus far not confirmed by MacArthur—of additional troop landings along the Batan coast, perhaps south of Subic bay on the rugged western shore line.

The Japanese claim—without U. S. confirmation or denial—to hold Hermosa and the naval base of Agapo just northwest of the Bataan line. MacArthur, however, may have some forces along the central northern border of Batan, just east of Olangapo.

MacArthur is expected to withdraw to Corregidor if Japanese pressure on Batan becomes too great.

The Japanese appeared to be employing no large-scale bombardment fleet against MacArthur or Corregidor fortress. Apparently the bulk of Japanese aviation has been shifted southward toward the Dutch Indies and Singapore—a possible indication that the Japanese have no surplus of air power for their far-flung campaign.

A compilation disclosed that American warships, submarines and planes have sunk an official total of 32 Japanese ships since start of the war, including 26 sunk by navy and marine forces and six by army bombers. An almost equal number have been reported damaged. United Nations forces are credited with about an equal number and the total sea loss of the Japanese is now running to figures which are bound to be felt sooner or later.

CHURCHILL TO FACE CRITICS

announced that Cripps was returning to England at his own request.

The new British ambassador to China is Sir Horace Seymour, assistant under secretary of the foreign office.

Complete secrecy had been maintained regarding Churchill's return. His choice of means of transportation also was a surprise. It had been regarded as likely that he would return by warship.

Churchill's own position seemed secure, though there was some criticism of him as a strategist. It was agreed in political quarters that the house of commons would expect a strong and constructive report from him, and it was generally believed that he would shake up his cabinet to weed out men criticised as having provided brake-power rather than motive power for the war effort.

In the past, however, Churchill has been firm against critics of his colleagues, and has remained loyal to men under hottest fire.

Churchill arrived at Plymouth wearing the blue reefer coat and yachting cap, familiar to those who saw him at Washington, of an elder brother of Trinity house. He was cheered heartily by the girl porters and soldiers who saw him.

TACKLE ARMS OUTPUT TASK

tion, with transformation of the automobile manufacturing capacity the biggest problem.

2. Speed-up of production in all lines.

3. Procurement of necessary materials and other facilities for production of machines and weapons.

4. Maintenance of supplies of vital commodities.

It was understood that Nelson contemplated a reorganization of the Office of Production Management, headed by Knudsen, to cut down on "red tape" involved in procurement of materials for the defense production program.

It was uncertain whether Nelson planned to eliminate the top OPM positions of Director-general and associate director general, the latter now held by Sidney Hillman, but some officials believed he would transfer production, purchasing and contractural activities to the army and navy under the joint board.

The divisions that would be left in OPM by such a transfer would be priorities, labor, civilian supply and materials. It was speculated that labor would remain under Hillman, civilian supply under Leon Henderson and materials under W. L. Batt, while chief deputy director J. S. Knowlson of priorities might be given the directorship of that division in place of Nelson.

Officials were drawing up various types of reorganization plans for Nelson to consider, and it was learned that he has conferred with Bernard Baruch, who was head of the war industries board during the first World war.

Knudsen and his aides will make the rounds of the nation's arsenals, munitions and other war factories to determine methods of speeding up the out-put of materials and equipment. He will continue as a member of the war production board, which is dominated by Nelson, subject only to orders by the president.

The executive order which created the new war production board was drafted by Nelson himself, who was given leeway by Mr. Roosevelt to propose any powers he thought he should be given to do the tremendous jobs before him. The order, it was understood, was aproved in exactly the same sweeping form that was proposed by Nelson.

She Tells How It Feels to Collect $5,600 Bank Night

here talking to Betty Irene when our neighbor, Mrs. Fred Powell, came over to bring the good news," recounted Mrs. Robison. "It's wonderful, but it was a shock. I haven't got over it yet."

She was asked if she can use the money.

"I should say we can," said Mrs. Robison. "My husband had several operations a few years ago, and we finally just got the bills straightened out a couple of months ago."

And what is she going to do with it? Mrs. Robison was all ready with her answer.

"After we pay the government whatever we will be called upon to pay as tax, we're going to do what we've been talking about for so long—buy a little farm. And part of the money will go for defense savings bonds, too."

Mrs. Robison didn't go to the theater last night, as she usually does, because she hadn't been feeling so well for a few days. But she didn't waste any time today regretting that she hadn't, even though it would have meant an extra $1,400.

She is the only member of the family registered for bank night, and her name was entered a year ago. A sister's name was called for $1,100 a few months ago, but she had no insurance tickets and was not present at the theater. Mrs. Robison, though, says she has never won anything before.

It was just a "break" that the Robisons bought four tickets last night. Usually they buy two, sometimes one, depending on the amount of money they feel they can afford to spend, Mrs. Robison said.

Well, now that the Robisons are all set to buy a farm, the rest of the folks in Mansfield and surrounding area who are registered can continue to take nerve medicine next week. For the total now goes up to $1,500, since the money was not collected from the theaters last night.

BRITISH SEIZE HALFAYA PASS

by siege forces pressing in steadily from all sides.

The final crack-up of the defense forces—originally estimated to number almost 10,000—began last Tuesday when imperial troops swept into nearby Salum, thereby cutting the defenders of the pass off from water or sea-borne supplies or reinforcement. The pass extends from near Salum through the coastal escarpment to the plateau land back from the sea.

Military observers expressed elation at the elimination of the last threat to the British rear and declared that now additional imperial forces would be released to move on west and reinforce the drive toward Tripolitania.

The British communique said that in this area severe sandstorms and heavy rain interferred with all operations around El Agheila yesterday.

Red army troops were reported today to be relentlessly widening a breach in German lines on the central Moscow front despite counter-attacks led by picked troops from the huge garrison in the Mozhaisk salient 57 miles west of the capital.

Costly and vain was, in brief, the Soviet information bureau's description of the efforts of Adolf Hitler's troops to check the direct assaults and pincer movements of the Russians.

Direct action against defenses of Taganrog, on the Sea of Azov 40 miles west of Rostov, and the Donets basin city of Kharkov was reported maintained by the southern divisions of Marshal Semeon Timoshenko.

Recaptured villages and towns are being repaired rapidly and farmers are assembling seeds, horses and tractors to resume agricultural production in the spring, Tass new agency said.

A treaty between Britain and Ethiopia was forecast by British sources as an aftermath of the expulsion of Italians from the East African kingdom.

Britain, they said, will recognize the full sovereignty of Emperor Haile Selassie and assure him aid in placing his country on a sound economic basis in a pact to be signed soon in Addis Ababa.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, JANUARY 17, 1942.

Drive carefully tomorrow—or possibly you'll prefer to leave your car in the garage for the day.

That $2.09 price for auto use stamps has an appealing sound—just as if it had been marked down from a higher figure.

That Oklahoma senator's suggestion of a government lottery stirred up a lot of antagonism—as it is only the practice of gambling that is tolerated, not the theory.

Carriers To Sell Defense Stamps

SALE of 10-cent defense stamps by News-Journal carriers will open the way for convenient regular purchase of these stamps, which can later be exchanged for defense bonds.

Anxious to do something to help win the war, these loyal American boys have taken on the sale of defense stamps as extra work, without pay, and it will please them greatly if many of the people to whom they deliver The News-Journal will also become weekly customers for defense stamps.

Purchase of defense stamps and bonds, it should be remembered, is not a contribution but an investment of savings—with the best security in the world, the guarantee of the United States treasury that the loan will be repaid with interest.

Children in the family, as well as adults, will find it desirable to order weekly delivery of defense stamps from their News-Journal carrier and will soon learn to regard filling their stamp album as not only a patriotic but a pleasant task—and they will thus acquire the valuable habit of thrift, which has sometimes been lacking in child training.

Reaching into practically every home in Mansfield and environs, through the 200 boys constituting its carrier system, The News-Journal bespeaks for these enthusiastic young salesmen of defense stamps the friendly interest of all of their patrons, and regular purchase of stamps on a weekly budget basis.

Even those who have started buying defense bonds regularly will find it an advantage to put aside small change at home for the purchase of defense stamps, as nickels and dimes thus amount to appreciable sums in a short time.

Order weekly delivery of defense savings stamps from your carrier—this is one answer to your question, "What can I do to help in the present emergency."

Hope for Best, Prepare for Worst

A COLLEGE dean who has read and seen quite a bit of history makes this suggestion to Americans studying the war news: "Base all calculations on the theory that the worst will happen. Then if it doesn't, we'll be that much ahead."

It can hardly be called the historical method, but it's certainly good strategy, whether for army leaders or civilian observers. Much grief in this and other wars has come from over-optimism. Recent events of Pearl Harbor and the Philippines should certainly have shocked us out of any such mood, or any reckless trust in luck.

The enemies of civilization, leagued in a tremendous effort to loot and destroy the democracies, make a real job of it when they prepare for war. Our light-hearted way of waiting, before waking up and tackling the job in earnest, has brought us close to disaster. We are likely to pull out of it this time, but such a risk shouldn't be taken again.

Avoid Spreading Fear

TERROR has injured more children in Europe than bombs, says the executive director of the National Association of Day Nurseries.

"Physical protection is not enough. Too many very young children are suffering from the war of nerves. This should not be. Day nurseries are successfully cushioning possible fright by making a novel game of air raid drills, concentrating on nerve-strengthening diets and helping children lead normal, unexcited lives. Children taken care of by mothers or maids should receive the same calm, preventive treatment. No matter what parents fear, their supreme duty in 1942 will be to conceal this fear from their children."

Concealing fear from grown-ups is good, too. Melodramatic spreading of fear is one of the worst things that can happen to any community. A little of the "so what?" attitude that Londoners had to learn is useful. Why not do today's duty as of today, giving a little extra effort to help the fighting forces, with money or knitting . . . or another hour's work.

Breakfasts as Friendship-Builders

A MAN who made himself famous without trying died the other day in Detroit. He wasn't what one would call "great" in science or politics, literature or business—or any of the other fields most often connected with fame.

Tom Wade was a business man who liked friends and good conversation. He was famous for his Sunday morning breakfasts, which he began to help overcome his loneliness after the death of his wife.

The breakfasts grew and grew, as word spread from friends to their friends in an ever-widening circle that went far beyond the reaches of the city. The fare was simple. All that was asked of the guests, whether musicians or statesmen or the neighbors across the street, was that they contribute to the good talk and good times.

New View of Old South

WAS the Old South ruled by wealthy planters" Readers of "Gone With The Wind" got such an impression, and it was already rather widespread. All this is wrong, however, says Burton Hendrick. His "Statesmen of the Old South," published not long ago, points out that democracy had reached even that region.

Jefferson Davis was born in a log-cabin, as Lincoln was, and not very far from Lincoln's birthplace, either. His secretary of the treasury, Conrad Memminger, spent his childhood in a South Carolina orphan asylum. Another cabinet officer was a former overseer of slaves, the most despised occupation in all Southern society. Merit, not wealth, position or ancestry, brought them to the posts they filled. So, on the whole, has it been with all of our executives, in South as well as North.

So little has been heard recently from Mussolini that he may have been removed from the balcony for the winter.

"Time to re-tire" now reverts to its original meaning.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—There's a movie in town called "Unholy Partners." In it, among others, are Edward G. Robinson and Edward Arnold. It isn't the best movie they ever made.

But what I thought would interest you about it is this: the action of the film takes place just after the first World War. All through the picture they talk about the feud George White was having with Flo Ziegfeld. In those days Ziegfeld and White did fight—like cats and dogs They grew bitter in their Broadway duellings.

Now Ziegfeld is dead, and White has gone on to other fields. In this picture the camera flashes, for perhaps 10 seconds—no more than that—to a telephone operator, who says, "The line is busy, Sir."

That's all she says. She isn't even mentioned in the billing. But her name used to be famous. She is Ann Pennington, of the Million dollar legs, who once starred for Ziegfeld and for White too.

JIMMY KELLY'S place is one of the older hangouts in the Village. It has been almost 41 years since Jimmy first became a nightclub operator in New York. Like him, his help stays on too. His band leader, who has been there 20 years, signed a new contract last week—for the next 20 years.

When I was there I spoke to Jimmy's cook. "How long you been here?" I asked. "Twenty-one years," he told me. When I asked him if he intended to stay, he replied, "I won't know 'til nevt week. I came here under a temporary arrangement, and we haven't discussed it since."

I WISH everyone who lived through the last war and who remembers President Woodrow Wilson's tragic efforts to build a machinery that would outlaw war for all time to come could see a new drama on Broadway called "In Time To Come."

It is the story of Wilson's fight for the League. It begins with his request that congress recognize that war between Germany and the U. S. exists, and ends with the collapse, or should I say, the refusal of the United States to accept a place in the League.

What I like about it is that very little fiction has been resorted to. The substance of this play came out of the record book and off the front pages of the newspapers of the day. It is told simply and truthfully, with no larding or white-washings.

WILSON'S dream was a justice and a chance for survival for all mankind, including the defeated nations, and it was to assure this that he demanded a League of Nations that would function properly, efficiently, and justly.

When it came time to select an actor to take the character of the late war time president, they che Richard Gains, a Texan, who plays this interesting role with distinction.

It is interesting to remember that it was Gaines who also played with distinction the title role in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois."

Tire Thieves Face Stiffer Penalty

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Government officials and automobile association leaders are in a huddle over a problem that already has been reported from numerous sections of the country—the theft and bootlegging of auto parts, tires and even cars.

No sooner had Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced the rationing of tires, autos and the curtailed production of replacement parts than the whole country broke out with a rash of petty thievery of tires and parts and the theft (already a felony on both state and federal statute books) of cars.

OFFICIALS fear that big-time crooks and racketeers, taking a page from the days of prohibition, might try to organize the petty thieves into rings and by wholesale operations seriously undermine the curtailment program.

Henderson's OPA is interested in the problem only in so far as it would, through its psychological and moral effect on the driving public, place a stumbling block in the smooth development of tire, car and parts rationing.

Realizing this, the American Automobile association and several other agencies have asked Henderson to propose a bill to make the theft of tires, parts and accessories a federal offense.

Thomas P. Henry, AAA president, in his appeal to Henderson said, "The widespread thievery is creating a bootleg market for illicit trade in these important commodities. This situation will develop into worse proportions unless strong measures are taken to counteract it."

THIS may look fine in print, but reducing it to actual application in everyday prosecution of community and state offenders is another matter. To make the thefts of tires, tubes, parts, etc., a federal offense when committed in intra-state traffic, would require a constitutional amendment. The only comparable one we have in the Constitution now is that applying to narcotics.

I don't think the AAA or any other organization or agency really hopes to see any federal law passed which would eliminate this threat against one of the all-out war measures.

What they do hope and expect is that the individual states will take cognizance of the problem and pass laws which to make tire and parts thefts, heretofore for the most part no more than a petty offense, a felony.

IN New York State, the legislature already has loaded its legislative guns to prevent this new type of bootlegging. A law has been introduced to make the theft of even an aluminum hubcap a felony that could land a man in the Big House up the Hudson for many times 30 days.

When a two-by-four hoodlum knows that he is up against a year or more in the penitentiary, there will be none of that sneaking around alley corners with a "Hi, Mister, how'd you like to buy a fine inner tube—just off the boat from the Dutch East Indies where they grow the real stuff. It's 100-proof. I wouldn't sell me own mother none of that re-cap stuff, Mister, you know that."

Listen World!

When the Lash Falls

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

BUT you never thought life would turn out like this! This timid, colorless affair . . . this wasn't the sort of career you planned in that first hot young dreaming. Others might make contemptible bargains with life, cowardly compromises . . . crawl into comfortable holes like sluggish beasts . . . or insulate themselves with wrappings of indifference . . . but you were going to be different! You were going to live while the living was good . . . eagerly, proudly, demanding the best.

Oh, yes! How simple it seemed—at seventeen. But what has become of those noble resolutions now? Easy enough to dream, but when it came to actual living? How did one stay gallant and eager, cooped in the same dingy walls, doing the same dingy chores year after year? How did one stay eager, nibbling forever at the thin, stale crusts of poverty?

Shabbiness, illness, loneliness, humiliation—tragic loss—no wonder the human spirit compromised; surrendered in the face of life's constant mauling! No wonder YOU gave up. What else could you have done?

And yet—you can't be reconciled. Again and again the troubling question comes:

Was it inevitable? Might there have been some other way to face life? Or are we really doomed to go "like sheep to the slaughter"—beaten before we even start the fight?

NO! There is another way! You CAN beat life to the clinch . . . emerge victorious . . . as once you dreamed you could. And no man is ever too poor or too sick or too old to learn the secret of it.

Seven words. Nietzsche, the German philosopher, put it long ago into seven words. "WHAT DOES NOT KILL ME, STRENGTHENS ME." Jack Black, a friend of mine whom I loved and deeply respected, had written a book. Once Jack had been a convict.

Afterwards he told the story of those terrible years under the title, "YOU CAN'T WIN." In one place he described a flogging he received in a Canadian jail. Ghastly! One felt the flayed and staggering flash . . . the nightmare agony.

Then, suddenly as a miracle, there came an amazing revelation. Jack Black had thought—as any proud man must think—that that flogging would be the end of him.

Not the end of his physical life, perhaps, but the end of all the pride and ambition that makes a man's life worth living. But it wasn't. Even crawling away from that dreadful tripod—fumbling his way with blood-glazed eyes—he knew that he was still unbeaten! His flesh might be lashed to ribbons, but his spirit was still whole.

And that knowledge had given him a power he had never before possessed!

"WHAT DOES NOT KILL ME STRENGTHENS ME!"

Life was a brutal business. And there was little a man might do to lessen that brutality. Always the lash would fall. If it were not one lash, it would be another—sickness, poverty, loneliness, humiliation, tragic loss—always the lash would fall.

But for every stroke that a man survived, he was the stronger. For there was something in a man that no lash could ever reach . . . something that lifted him above the mauling of life into the mystery from which all men came.

Something that lifted a man from the whipping post of a convict to the golden throne of a God! And each time a man triumphed over the agony of the lash, he was one step further on that long, long, trail!

M. W.:—"Can ulcer of the stomach be cured? What treatment would you prescribe?"

Answer: Ulcer of the stomach can be cured in most cases, although it is quite a chronic disease. I would recommend a diet in which sweet, sour and spiced foods are eliminated. The best food for you is lean, broiled meat. Fats, but not fried foods, are well tolerated. Always have your bread toasted. In the way of medicine, I would recommend sodium bicarbonate and other alkaline substances.

J. S.:—"Is it dangerous to have tonsils removed by an electric needle?"

Answer: Tonsils can be removed successfully in this way, but it must be done by one who has had considerable experience. There are several other better ways of removing tonsils.

L. B. W.:—"Has pasteurized milk any value over canned milk and should irradiated canned milk having additional qualities (?) be purchased in preference to ordinary canned milk?"

Answer: If by canned milk you mean whole canned milk, such as evaporated milk, it is of the same value as pasteurized milk. There is no doubt about the additional qualities of irradiated milk; it contains Vitamin D and is to be preferred.

J. M.:—"Are meat and salt harmful for one with high blood pressure?"

Answer: This is an old superstition and I suppose three-fourths of all patients with high blood pressure are told, by their doctors to stop eating red meat and salt immediately. I just had a long talk with one of the best American students of high blood pressure and he says that these patients should have meat and salt in order to keep up their nutrition.

Summary of Week's Happenings

U. S. War Effort Gains Impetus As Nelson Is Given Power to Act

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

AS AMERICA'S defense effort has spawned more and more agencies in Washington, there has been a clamor for an all-powerful somebody at the top.

First, in 1940 after the fall of France, the president complied by setting up the bulky National Defense Advisory Board.

With the birth of the lend-lease program a year ago he created the two-headed Knudsen-Hillman creature known as OPM to replace NDAB.

Then late last summer after the U. S. began convoying, a new agency was set atop OPM. This was SPAB (Supply Priorities and Allocations Board.) Mild, theory-minded Vice President Wallace was placed in charge with hard-hitting Donald Nelson as executive director. Knudsen-Hillman were members of the seven-man board.

Last week, with America actually at war, critics were demanding that one man be made responsible for the entire production program.

FDR moved again, created the War Production board. His selection as the sole chief: Donald Nelson, tireless, tough-hearted driver who has thought all along that America was not sweating half enough. Nelson is an all-out man, a red-tape slasher. He has been in Washington 1½ years. Before that he was a Sears Roebuck executive.

Other members of the old SPAB will serve on the new board under him, including Wallace. FDR said that Nelson's decisions on "questions of procurement and production will be final."

In effect, Nelson becomes the generalissimo of supply. His only superior officer is FDR.

The new production czar promptly notified OPM, the army and navy that he was ready to shake up the entire setup if he thought it necessary to "lick Hitler and the Japs."

At Home

Labor Board With Teeth.

The abrupt walkout of CIO men on the national defense mediation board last fall when it refused to grant John L. Lewis' miner workers a closed shop in "captive mines" doomed the board.

Then war came, and with it an agreement by industry and labor to forego strikes and lockouts for the duration. During the past week the president announced a new 12-man wartime board to replace the old NDMB.

It absorbed all the functions and many of the employes of the old board, but there is a notable difference. The new one has teeth. Both sides of any dispute must accept the recommendations of an umpire.

On the board will be four men representing the public, four from industry, four from labor. Chairman of the board will be public representative William H. Davis, patent lawyer who headed the old board.

Meanwhile Cyrus Ching, rubber executive, was named chairman of the labor-management subcommittee which will aid in converting the automobile industry to war production.

Hull and the French.

The RAF's first mission for the U. S. in the war was to drop 2 million leaflets on Paris and Lille in occupied France which bore a picture of the Statue of Liberty and the American Flag in colors.

Secretary Hull said the pamphlet was to keep the French people informed of this country's friendly attitude. However, the secretary had other French problems. Vice Admiral Emile Muselier, who commanded Free French units that occupied the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon off Canada, announced he intended to remain there. All but 14 of the islanders, he said, had voted in favor of Free French as opposed to Vichy control.

The U. S. formally had requested Canada to restore "status quo" on the island (Vichy control,) but this week Hull said his department's attitude was friendly to both Vichy and Free French.

Mistake or Masquerade?

Parishioners of Roseville Methodist church, Newark, N. J., just couldn't believe that gentle-voiced, Mrs. Amelia Carr, 66, wife of the chairman of the church trustees, had been led off to jail. She had come into the community a few years ago, married J. Clarence Carr, 70, and had a record for doing charitable work. But Prosecutor Wachenfeld of Essex county said he had discovered another record.

He had charged Mrs. Carr with defrauding another church woman of $4,700. Fingerprints brought to light an FBI dossier, which the prosecutor said included a career for 50 years as a confidence woman. Her husband, heartbroken, said: "I can't help but feel this is all a terrible mistake."

Gloomy Possibility.

In Washington for the first time the possibility arose that the whole area (Philippines, Singapore, Java and other Indies isles) would fall into Japanese hands before sufficient U. S. and British aid could arrive. If that happened the United Nations would be forced back to Australia, 1,200 miles southeast of Java and the last bastion from which a major counter-offensive can be launched in the South Pacific.

Abroad

Germany's 'Fluid Front.'

Germans used to profess amusement when their retreating enemies devised such terms as "elastic defense," "readjustment of lines" and "withdrawal to previously prepared positions" to describe the retreat.

This week the Russians were laughing. German militarists had started using the phase "fluid front" in describing the German retreat in Russia.

An AP newsman on the continent reported that Adolf Hitler's forces had already abandoned newly-constructed barracks modeled after Russian peasant huts that were intended to serve as "winter quarters."

Quotes

Donald M. Nelson on being named supreme authority over all U. S. war production: "We've got a tremendous job to do—God only knows how tremendous."

Wendell L. Willkie urges full and prompt mobilization of America's production: "We need decisions, not discussions. We need planes, not predictions. We need tanks, not talk."

A Nazi reporter allegedly broadcast that the Russians were using "remarkable new tactics—including the use of a long column of white polar dogs pulling white sleds bearing Siberian snipers dressed in white coats and masks."

In addition to military disaster, German commander Adolf Hitler also faced disunity and disease.

China Gets Busy.

The Chinese are reported by air, troops to Malaya and Burma to reinforce British troops there. The Burma Road is said by observers to be "chock full" of well-armed Chinese troops moving westward.

China has retaken its place as a major world power. Clear proofs of this are that it is one of the Big Four to be granted a full partnership in the United Nations; and that Chiang has been placed in charge of all United Nation forces in China, Indo-China and Thailand.

Wrote news analyst DeWitt Mackenzie during the week: "One of the most promising developments in the battle of the Pacific from the allied standpoint is the remarkable striking power and morale being displayed by the Chinese."

Meeting In Rio.

Loud sputters came out of Axis capitals as delegates from the 21 American republics converged on Rio de Janerio. Among other things the delegates were to consider breaking off relations with the Axis.

At the outset it was clear that the big question of the conference was whether Argentina would join with other republics in breaking off relations with enemies of the U. S.

The U. S. laid before the Argentinians a double example of hemispheric co-operation as the meeting convened by signing a lease-lend agreement with Uruguay, Argentina's across-the-river neighbor, and by signing a mutual defense pact with Mexico.

Other notable problems confronting delegates were (1) the Peru-Ecuador border dispute for which Ecuador was demanding a settlement; (2) increased shipment of strategic raw materials to the U. S.; and (3) shipment from the U. S. to the various Latin American countries of badly-needed products.

Timely Editorial

Right by Instinct.

As a rule, the athlete much in the public eye has a second personality which may be more attractive or less than the side the public sees. Only now and then a sports figure comes along, like Joe Louis, who is the same all the way through. While a title-holder, his sense of the right thing to do and say has been infallible, not because he is sophisticated and wary, but because it rests on a solid basis of character.

His application for induction into the army before his number was up was entirely in keeping with the general conception of the champion. It can and will be said that others are doing as much with no hoorah, which is true. The fact remains that many of our idols, living in an air of unreality and subject to pressures unknown to the ordinary man, do not come to those right decisions which Louis arrives at by what appears to be instinct. He is a credit to his game, his race and his country.—Detroit News.

One-Minute Test.

1. On the facade of what United States building does the following inscription appear: "He who would bring home the wealth of the Indies must carry the wealth of the Indies with him"?
2. Which state in the Union has no counties?
3. When it is noon in England, what time is it here?

Words of Wisdom.

Lying is a hateful and accursed vice. We have no other tie upon one another, but our word. If we did but discover the horror and consequences of it, we should pursue it with fire and sword, and more justly than other crimes. —Montaigne.

Hints on Etiquette.

A working girl must have a foundation spirit of fair play to have good business manners. Her attitude toward her employer and fellow workers must be "square."

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. The Union station, Washington, D. C.
2. Louisiana.
3. Seven a. m.

Pointed Paragraphs

The true test of friendship is not in words but actions.

A man injures himself every time he wrongs another.

Daily Bible Thought

Wisdom is the principal thing, therefore get wisdom; yea with all thy getting get understanding.—Proverbs 4:7.

In Short

Announced: A $400,000,000 program for making synthetic rubber to end the critical shortage of rubber by the middle of 1943, by Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator.

Struck down: By the U. S. Supreme Court, Georgia's statute requiring employes to work out their debts to employers or face the chain gang. Under the law, the court said, workers could be kept in peonage in violation of the 13th amendment.

Torpedoed: An American tanker a few score miles south of Block Island off the New England coast.

Kayoed: Heavyweight Buddy Baer in one round, by Joe Louis. From the fight the Navy Relief Fund received $89,000 of the proceeds. Louis' contribution (his total share of gate minus training expenses) was about $50,000.

As Others See It

Interesting But Improbable.

Wonder how Herr Hitler would feel about taking his case to the people at this time, on a straight vote of confidence, with the No on the ballot printed as large as the Yes.—Detroit News.

Explanation.

If we object to taxes at one time and not at another it's the difference between paying to support politicians and paying to protect the nation.—Kansas City Star.

KATHLEEN STURGES WEDS M. A. BRADLEY II

Ceremony In Parish House of St. Peter's Catholic Church at 11:30 This Morning Unites Prominent Couple; Wedding Breakfast at Sturges Home.

WEDDING of Miss Kathleen Sturges, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Sturges, 560 Overlook road, and Morris Alva Bradley II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Bradley, Elandon drive, Cleveland, which took place at 11:30 a. m. today, was one of the season's most important social events and climaxed a series of pre-nuptial parties in the couple's honor. Msgr. R. C. Goebel performed the ceremony in the parish house of St. Peter's Catholic church in the presence of the immediate families. Mr. Sturges gave his daughter in marriage. Both the bride and bridegroom are members of prominent families. Miss Sturges is descendant of a pioneer Mansfield family and Mr. Bradley's father is president of the Cleveland Indians baseball club.

Attending Miss Sturges as matron of honor was her cousin, Mrs. E. Perkins McGuire, of New York City. Alva Bradley II, of Cleveland, cousin of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Mrs. Bradley's lovely wedding gown was of white tulle appliqued with satin lilies-of-the-valley at the waist and on the shoulders. The gown was fashioned with a V-neckline and long sleeves. The floor-length skirt extended into a train. Valenciennes lace, worn by Mrs. Henry Hale Sturges, of this city, grandmother of the bride, for her wedding in 1874, formed a cap with brim and edged the fingertip-length tulle veil. The bride's only jewelry was a double-strand necklace of pearls, engagement present from the bridegroom's parents. She carried a bridal bouquet of white camellias and stephanotis.

Mrs. McGuire's floor-length gown was of rose pink lace and net styled with a heart-shaped neckline and short sleeves. Her taffeta hat was in a matching shade and she carried a white colonial bouquet. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Sturges appeared in a street-length gown of French blue with matching accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of pale pink camellias. Mrs. Bradley, mother of the bridegroom, wore a grey dress with fuchsia accessories. A corsage of orchids completed her ensemble.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast and reception for the immediate families was held at the home of the bride's parents. Guests and the bridal party were seated at a U-shaped table in the living room. White flowers and greenery in effective arrangements were used throughout the home and on the table, which also was decorated with lighted tapers. Gardenias encircled the base of the three-tiered wedding cake which was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

When Mr. and Mrs. Bradley leave early this afternoon for a short wedding trip, the bride will be attired in a two-piece grey suit, the lapels of which are stitched in gold. Her grey hat also has gold stitching. Accessories include a gold blouse, grey alligator purse and shoes. She will have a shoulder corsage of yellow orchids. Uon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Bradley will reside in Shaker Heights, where they have purchased a home at 3011 Manchester road.

The former Miss Sturges is a graduate of Georgetown Visitation Convent at Washington, D. C. She attended Ogontz school at Philadelphia, Pa. HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, January 18.

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a rather conflicting one, with promise of much of a benevolent, propitious and happy state of affairs in the domestic, social, emotional and cultural associations, but with omens of duplicity, intrigue and certain sinister and subtle undertones to urge vigilance and discretion. The business interests may perhaps suffer mainly.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a propitious and happy year in the domestic, romantic, social and cultural life, with some prosperity in connection with possessions and ambitions, but with an adverse and threatening undercurrent at the root of business writings or contracts.

For Monday, January 19.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast may be for the sudden advent of a devasting, uprooting and disturbing force, which may upset all current issues, since unforeseen change seems imminent in this surprising visitation. This may effect the personal as well as the financial and business interests, and need restrained, prudent and sagacious management.

Those whose birthday it is need not be surprised should they be visited by a sudden, unexpected and harrowing experience of uprooting and disintegrating force, which may bring business, financial and domestic reversals. Be wise, restrained, poised and shrewd when this occurs and elders, superiors and those in power may be found ready with splendid support and encouragement.

HOME WEDDING UNITES LOCAL COUPLE FRIDAY

Miss Beatrice E. Kochenderfer and John Workman Exchange Vows Before Rev. E. G. Corwin; Wedding Supper Held at Home of Bride.

IN A CANDLELIGHT ceremony which was solemnized at 6:30 o'clock Friday evening, Miss Beatrice Elaine Kochenderfer became the bride of John Shearer Workman. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd L. Kochenderfer, 543 Highland avenue. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Charles H. Workman, 655 Maple street. When Rev. E. G. Corwin, pastor of the First Methodist church, read the double ring service, the couple stood before an improvised altar of palms, white flowers and candelabra which had been arranged in front of the fireplace. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Preceding the ceremony, which was performed in the presence of the immediate families, Mrs. George W. Hall played the following nuptial music on the piano: "The Pines," by Mathews; "Catilene Nuptials," by Dubois; "Ich Liebe Dich," by Greig; "Liebestraume," by Liszt; "Calm as The night," by Bohm; "I Love You Truly;" "Indian Love Call;" and "The Sweetest Story Ever Told." Processional was "The Wedding March" from Lohengrin, and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" served as the recessional.

Wedding ensemble of the former Miss Kochenderfer was in a deep aqua shade. She wore an orchid corsage, and her jewelry consisted of twin turquoise bracelets which are family heirlooms. A rose ensemble and gardenia corsage were worn by Mrs. Kochenderfer. Mrs. Workman was attired in a black dress and corsage of white roses.

Bride's table was centered with a large cake and decorated with white roses and tapers when the wedding supper was served at the Kochenderfer home following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Workman are now on a short wedding trip. For traveling, the bride wore a gold wool suit with brown accessories. When the newlyweds return, they will make their home at 655 Maple street.

The bride studied music at Ashland college and is employed in the offices of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. An employe in the office of Sun Glow Industries, Mr. Workman attended De Pauw university where he affiliated with Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"If I know Redfield's kind, and I think I do," my father commented, "you will not have to bring the conversation around to Mary. He will begin to talk about her himself. You will simply have to listen, and know when to put in the words which will put him in a tractable mood.

"But I don't envy you the task," he went on. "I imagine that he's exceedingly angry at Mary."

"He has good reason to be," I said, "although he richly deserved the very scathing things she said to him."

"The more he deserved them, the angrier he would be," my father observed sapiently, and I nodded.

"No, it won't be an easy task," I assented, "but I think it's the only thing to do. If he met Mary without any outside — intervention, I fancy is the best word — things would be apt to be said on both sides which could never be forgiven.

Might Jeopardize Plan.

"I think Mary could bear up very well under such a happening," I went on, "but it would be fatal to any plan of having her get further information out of him."

"And that we must not risk," my father rejoined. "So — how soon can you get hold of Veritzen?"

"At any minute, I fancy," I answered. "They're just about through luncheon. And if you don't mind, I think I'll go over there instead of asking Philip to come over here."

"I don't mind at all," he said, rising. "I have nothing to do with this, you know, except to garner the results of Mary's interviews with Redfield. I shall want to see her before she goes out with him again. She won't be going out with him tonight, will she?"

"Oh, no," I said, "she never goes out with him after the show, and rarely for dinner; mostly for luncheons and teas."

Mary's Wise Head.

"She has a wise head on young shoulders," he commented, as he turned toward the door. "I'll just be getting back to Ronald, who arrived just before you called. He is very anxious to see you, but I have told him that you had to go away, and may not be back until late."

"Oh, why?" I exclaimed, and stopped short.

"I cannot tell you just now," he said, "because it would only distract your mind from seeing Redfield, but when you get through with him, I have a most important assignment to discuss with you. Give me another ring at my rooms as soon as you have finished talking to Redfield. And I know I need not ask you to lose no time in getting hold of him."

To Hunt Up Redfield.

"I shall go over to the Veritzen suite immediately," I said, and went out of the door with him and to the elevator, taking leave of him at his floor, then going on up to the top floor, where Philip Veritzen kept the palatial "owner's suite" reserved for himself, his wife and his stepdaughter, whenever it was more convenient for them to occupy it for a night or two than to go to the beautiful home in the outskirts of the city he had acquired for the exiled queen whom he had married.

Philip Veritzen himself answered the door. He never permits Olga or Olina to take any step he can save them. I never have seen such deferential devotion as he gives to his queenly wife.

"This is indeed a pleasant surprise," he said, with the elaborate courtesy which makes even his sometimes banal utterances appear distinctive. "Olga! Olina! Madge is here."

But Olga was already at my side, drawing me to a seat.

Asks About Lillian.

"My dear," she exclaimed, "I'm so glad to see you. But tell us. How is Lillian?"

Her voice was filled with the anxiety which all of Lillian's friends feel for her in this awful hour of trial.

"I think she is feeling a little better," I told them. "I cannot tell you about it now, although I will later, but in a roundabout way she has heard that Marion is safe and well, despite her being in the hands of gangsters, and that has cheered her immensely."

"Oh, I am glad for her!" Olga said, and then I delayed no longer in stating my errand.

"I wish I could stay and talk to you," I said, "but I am here on an errand for my father, and I must not delay it. Philip, have you any idea where I can get hold of Stephen Redfield?"

CHAPTER XI

"Couldn't—couldn't you stay with me, instead?" she murmured timidly. "There's so much—"

"Sorry, angel," Greg sounded hurried. "Jerry Coleman is a pretty important man to our organization, and I've got to stay on the good side of him. Of course if you'd rather not go—"

"Of course she'll go," Diane put in firmly. "I insist!"

"If you're sure that I won't be intruding—"

The artist laughed. "Of course you won't be intruding. Everyone will be there tonight. This is a big affair."

A big affair! That was what Diane had called the reception as simply as though these parties replete with caterers and famous orchestras were every-day occurrences.

Linda gazed about her uncertainly as she stood in the mammoth ballroom of the Coleman mansion. The walls were banked with lilies and their odor was almost suffocating. A magnificent crystal candelabra directly overhead blazed with light so intense that Linda felt small and insignificant beneath its splendor. The room was crowded with dancing, conversing couples, but no one seemed to notice anyone else, and Linda clung to Greg's arm, finding comfort in his bigness and strength.

Greg pointed out Jerry Coleman to her, and she was amazed. Could this lonely, rotund little man standing forlornly near the orchestra platform be Brenda's husband? She could see Brenda's blond head at the far end of the room, the girl surrounded by adoring young males, Linda felt a stab of pity for the forgotten bridegroom. He seemed so completely left out of things, despite the fact that his wealth and generosity was making possible this evening's entertainment for all the guests.

Engrossed in watching him, Linda was scarcely aware that Greg had excused himself for a moment and disappeared, until she felt eyes turned in her direction inquiringly, and a frown creased Jerry Coleman's forehead. Then, flushing a little for the rude way she had been staring at him, she hurried across the room to a less conspicuous spot near the wide, tapestry-hung windows.

She was watching zealously for some sign of Greg's red head when she sensed, rather than saw someone approach her, and a low, masculine voice said in her ear:

"I've been watching you from across the room and you looked like a kindred spirit. May I talk to you?"

Linda turned quickly, her manner frigid. She was unused to having strangers address her, and something in the thickness of his speech warned her that the man was drunk. Drunk, but more than that, there was something suggestive in his manner. Something tense and frightening.

Linda glanced wildly up and down the room for some avenue of escape from her unwelcome visitor, but the man only chuckled at her frightened face.

"Don't be afraid," he said. "After all, you're a stranger to me, too, and I'm not afraid of you."

Linda saw an amused twinkle in his eyes that was reassuring. He was young and undeniably handsome, with a bronzed face flushed by too much champagne and narrowed blue eyes. His dark hair was tousled; his hands were thrust deep in his pockets like a small boy's, and Linda admonished herself for being needlessly frightened. This person was obviously lonely and wanted to talk.

"All right," she said gently. "What is it you want to talk about?"

"About this." He waved his hands to take in the panorama of lights and laughter and color. "This sideshow."

"I think it's beautiful."

"All right. It's beautiful," he said eagerly, "but it doesn't mean a thing. Do you know what it's for? It's a reception for the blond beauty in the corner, and the little man by the orchestra platform. Well, the beauty is getting intoxicated on champagne and flattery. She's having a great time, but is the man enjoying it? No! That's because he knows it's a beautiful and expensive fraud."

He paused for breath, and Linda said uncertainly, "I don't know what you mean. They are married, aren't they?"

Linda's companion laughed. "Of course they're married. All Jerry Coleman had to do was to wave a few thousand-dollar bills in Brenda Jordon's face, and—pouff! They're married!"

Linda stared at the man curiously. His eyes were bitter as they rested on the crowded room, his firm, handsome mouth was drawn down distastefully.

"Why are you so cynical?" she demanded. "Just what does this have to do with you?"

"Haven't you heard the gag about Steve Baridon and the little girl who threw him over? It's Chicago's favorite bedtime story."

Understanding dawned on Linda. This man was Mary Baridon's brother. Linda said, gently:

"So you're Mary's big brother—Steve."

"Yeah."

Linda felt a sudden surge of anger at his manner. "The very idea," she said, aloud, "of a grown man going around feeling sorry for himself just because he can't have everything! It seems that I've heard of your writing talent. You have your work, haven't you?"

Linda paused. She thought, suddenly, "What right have I to lecture a stranger! What will he think of me?"

Steve Baridon was looking at her rudely. "Who are you?" he said.

"Linda Phillips is my name."

He looked closely at her. "Linda Phillips -- the Prairievale Queen?" he blurted out; then seeing her hurt expression he floundered awkwardly. "Oh, I'm sorry, Miss Phillips. I didn't mean—"

"It's perfectly all right," she answered stiffly.

"But—don't misunderstand—" He was embarrassed.

"I said it was all right!" Linda was near tears. Who had given her that ridiculous title? She had a sudden suspicion that Brenda might be responsible. Somehow Linda had felt an instant dislike for the new bride the day they met, as though Brenda was not to be trusted.

She looked up gratefully as Greg and Diane appeared. After speaking briefly to Steve they bore her away between them.

"What was he saying to you?" Diane queried when they were safely out of earshot of the disgruntled suitor. "Your face was scarlet."

* * *

Linda told the story and Diane frowned. "That sounds like someone's idea of a very funny joke," she said, "but don't take it to heart, honey. Steve Baridon is usually a perfect gentleman—one of the grandest men I know, I can't say I blame him for getting tight tonight, with his ex-girl friend strutting her stuff as Mrs. Jerry Coleman right under his nose."

"But why did he come here, then?" Linda pondered. "I'd think under the circumstances he'd prefer to stay far away."

"That, my dear, is one of nature's odd quirks," Diane answered soberly. "There's something about loving a man, or a woman, that drives you to the point where you can't stay away from them, no matter how they've treated you. In fact, in many instances, the worse they treat you the more you love them, and Steve Baridon is only human."

"Well, if it isn't Linda Phillips!" A honey-sweet voice said. Linda looked up to see Brenda Coleman smiling maliciously at Diane. "Back so soon, Linda?"

CASH THAT TRICK FAST

WHEN YOU see a set-up card of some suit in the dummy, on which you know the declarer can discard some loser of another suit, it is a good idea to strain every resource to cash any quick tricks of your own, when the declarer is playing at a suit contract. Otherwise your high card or cards may go to bed. It is even wise at such a time to take a chance of setting up a secondary honor for the declarer, by laying down an ace, rather than see it possibly take no trick at all.

Charles Lochridge, of New York, one of the greatest all-around players in the game, was paired with another of them, Lee Hazen, national individual masters champion, on this deal in the great tournament at Richmond, Va. He proved his acumen in the way he handled his own part of the job and at the same time gave his opponents a chance to err.

Mr. Lochridge let the heart J. hold the opening trick and took the second with the dummy's A. North having led the 9 to that trick, he read it as indicating possession also of the 10 in a trebleton, so then led the heart 5 from dummy to the K, setting up the 7. South, now in the lead, had a chance to try to prevent ruffs where the dummy was blank in clubs. His diamond 3 was allowed to go to the K by Mr. Lochridge, who was sure North would repeat the trumps instead of leading a spade. North did.

The dummy's diamond Q won that, whereupon the heart 7 was led, the spade 6 being put on it. North ruffed it with the diamond 10, but the show was now over for his side. The spade A was tried next, but ruffed, and the rest of the hand was easy, as two of the dummy's spades were ruffed and another was put on the club A.

Your Week-End Lesson.

When you win the opening trick in the suit led by your partner, and you take your first look at the dummy, what combination of factors should you have in mind as the most important reason why you should switch to trumps, and what combination as the most important reason why you should not?

Tygers Edge New Philadelphia 40-36 In Rough Battle

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Today this is the record department.

If you can do the fancy dances, you'll have to look elsewhere for your favorite brand of records, for this is no platter parade. Any resemblance between this corner and a juke jernt is strictly etc., etc., etc.

The records offered here are sport department items only.

When Mansfield high school's terrific Tygers tore through the Ashland A's in a second half blitzkrieg the other evening they evened an old score. A 30-year-old score as a matter of fact.

For 30 years the Mansfields and the Ashlands have been battling at bucketball, attempting to establish supremacy in the scientific art of dunking the globule in the hoopskirts. That's what you call those meshed awnings dangling from the baskets.

* * *

And now after 30 years the two schools can start all over again, from scratch. Each school now has 28 victories tucked away in the record books.

From Lexington comes word of another record. a 299 game rolled on the Clever duckpin alleys. Clever is the name of the brothers who run the alleys.

Henry Hosler recently missed a perfect score by just one pin, but his 299 stands as an alley record. After watching some of the good bowlers trying their hand at duck pins at the Colony alleys, I'm convinced that a perfect score in ducks is harder to get than in the regular game.

Up on the Colony alleys another record has been set. Joe Prosser, who recently set 106 lines, now has a new mark of 107½, the half coming by teaming up with another pinboy on three alleys.

Come up for air, Joe. Records are all right as far as they go, but if this goes any farther, you've set yourself up a job of work. And that ain't sport.

* * *

Records come and records go,
But none go on like little Joe.

GETS 22 POINTS

MARION—Dick Patterson's 22 points paced Mt. Gilead high school hoopsters to a 38-29 victory last night over Marion St. Mary's at Edison junior high gym. The Saints took the preliminary game 24-23.

Blue Jay Reserves Win Tilt

After Varsity Quits, 2nds Win Club's First Game.

BELLVILLE—A group of reserves and freshmen got together for Bellville last night after the majority of the first team had quit after losing eight straight cage games and walloped Union, 41-14.

Reason for the veterans quitting the game was given as a realizaton that they weren't going to win any games anyway so they just gave up completely rather than play on a losing team. And last night was the logical time to quit.

Union, winner of two league games and loser of one, was slated to easily take the game. So Martin Hamilton, Bill Livingston, Bob Myers and Ducky Livingston, all first string Blue-Jays, handed in their uniforms to Coach George McIntyre.

In their place McIntyre used Bob Bowers, a freshman reserve at forward; Joe Watkins, a sub forward; George Stodt, leading county scorer who remained with the team; Gene Robinson, reserve guard; and Tom Ritter, freshman reserve guard.

Bowers not only held up his end in his varsity ball venture, but he tied Stodt for scoring honors for the evening, caging five baskets and two free throws for a total of 12 points.

Watkins got his eye also and threw in four baskets and one foul shot for nine points, while Stodt caged six field goals for 12 points.

In the first quarter Bellville got away to an early lead, 15-5, and by the half was leading, 22-9. In the third quarter the Blue Jays upped their lead to 33-13 and added another eight points to Union's one in the last stanza.

Union won the reserve game—with the Bellville reserves playing first string—18-12.

ONTARIO—Lucas got away to an early lead last night and trounced the Warrier cage team, 35-24, in a Richland county league game.

With only 11 of their 24 points scored by the end of the third quarter, the reserves took over and ran up 15 points for Ontario but failed to catch the Lucasmen.

High scorer was Bud Swain, Lucas freshman, with six field goals for 12 points.

Ontario took the reserve game, 20-13.

NELSON CONTINUES TO LEAD TOURNEY

OAKLAND, Calif. — (AP) — Four shots out in front and swinging in true championship form, Byron Nelson still set the pace today going into the third round of the 72-hole Oakland $5,000 open golf tournament.

For 36 hours the Toledoan has been the Nelson who won the U. S. open in 1939 and the P. G. A. championship a year later, cool, calculating and a definite dead-eye on the business end of a set of sticks.

Ashland Wins In Closing Minute

ASHLAND—Bartley's free toss in the last minute of play gave Ashland high school a 28-27 North Central Ohio league victory over the rangy Bucyrus Redskins last night, and kept the A's in the running for the loop title.

Leuthold of Bucyrus missed a pair of free throws in the last five seconds.

Bucyrus led at the quarter, 7-6. but Ashland took a 17-12 lead at the half. The third quarter saw the count knotted at 22-22.

Harding Swamps Galion Quintet

GALION—By 40 points, Harding high's fast stepping cagers of Marion, beat the Galion high Orangemen on the local Junior high gym court, Friday night. The final score was 63 to 23 in favor of the visitors.

For Harding, Mulvaine, center, scored 15 points. Williams was second high with 11 points.

PLAN SHOOT

Members of the Gasco pistol club will match their marksmanship with the Ashland Rifle and Pistol club tomorrow in the Ashland armory. The match will be shot under national match course regulations.

Madison Loses Challenge To Butler Cage Loop Lead

Minus the services of Harold Hammer, their best forward, Madison's Rams lost a cage game to Butler that may very well cost them the Richland county championship by a 19-17 score.

The game, played on Ram hill, started with the Rams taking a first quarter lead, losing it at the half, gaining a tie in the third quarter and losing the game again before the third quarter had ended.

* * *

After three and a half minutes of defensive play with neither team scoring, Dick Bader looped a long shot for the Rams, followed a second later by a set up shot under the bucket by Willy Wynn.

* * *

Max Roberts put in another bucket to place the Rams ahead, 6-0, before Ray Prosser broke the ice for Butler with a basket.

Before the quarter Wynn got another to give the Rams an 8-2 lead.

In the second quarter Delbert Poston got the only Ram tally while Junior Pritchard, Billy Hoover, Elwin Harris and Dwight Forbes all marked up baskets for Butler and Dwain Forbes made good a free throw putting Butler ahead 11-9.

Dwain Forbes put Butler ahead, 19-9 before Delbert Poston caged two baskets in a row to tie up the score in the third frame. Harris and Dwight Forbes then got free throws and Pritchard a basket to lead, 17-13, over Madison. Wynn caged one more basket before the quarter ended..

* * *

In the last quarter Harris got a basket to bring the Butler total to 19 and Ken Windsor a foul shot and Wynn another to end the Ram scoring.

Hammer, one of the leading county scorers and best Ram shot, was confined to his bed earlier in the day with pleurisy and won't be able to play for a week, Coach Al Fendrick believes.

Although the Rams were able to keep Harris, large and rangy Butler center from scoring more than five tallies the whole evening, they were unable to crease the strings as often as usual themselves.

The game gave Butler four straight wins and top rung on the county ladder.

HOLMAN RESIGNS AS FOOTBALL MENTOR

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Alan M. Holman, Ohio state quarterback in 1929 and 1930, has resigned as football coach at Franklin & Marshall college to enter private business with the Galbreath Real Estate company, Columbus, it was announced today.

Holman has been head coach at Franklin & Marshall for the last 11 seasons. His 1941 squad won five games, lose one and tied one.

Purple Raiders Ramble Along

Mount Union Continues Unbeaten In Conference.

(By Associated Press)

Mount Union's Purple Raiders still ride the Ohio basketball range undefeated.

Including last night's 57-39 victory over John Carroll, the Raiders have won eight games, five of them in the Ohio conference.

In handing Carroll its fourth defeat in conference play at Cleveland, the Raiders were ahead 17-10 at the quarter, 28-19 at the half and 46-30 at the end of the third period. Jim DeWitt, Mount Union forward, led both teams in scoring with 14 points.

All of last night's major contests were conference games.

At Marietta, a Findlay substitute guard sank a foul in the last 18 seconds of play to edge Marietta, 42 to 41. Marietta, behind most of the time, had tied the score at 41-41 with less than a minute to go when Gene Wurm, visitor's guard, was fouled.

The Baldwin-Wallace Yellow Jackets made a fourth-quarter surge to overtake Ashland and win 45 to 40. At Bowling Green, Muskingum breezed through the Falcons 43 to 33, in a slow game. Taylor university thumped Giffin college of Van Wert, 59 to 25, in a game at Upland, Ind. Don Odle, Taylor forward, was high scorer with 19 points.

Zivic Kicks on Quick Decision

Hits Donavan Action In Ruling Knockout.

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK — (AP) — Fritzie Zivic has no complaints today about the speed and "Sunday shots" with which rapid Ray Robinson whipped him, but Fritzie and a lot of others are curious over what made Referee Arthur Donovan stop the fight.

Donovan stepped in with Zivic on the floor in the tenth round last night before a crowd of 15,475 in Madison Square Garden, and gave Robinson a technical knockout victory.

* * *

Possibly the most amazed man in the place was Luke Carney, Fritzie's manager, who declared today that Donovan's decision was "too fast." Said Carney: "At least, my man was entitled to be counted over."

Now, there's no denying that Harlem's skinny hammer was considerably out in front in the riproaring 12-round battle to decide who would get a shot a Red Cochrane's welterweight championship. The Associated Press card gave the lanky Negro five of the nine completed rounds. What's more, he floored fearless Fritzie with a looping overhand right for a nine count in the ninth session.

But when Ray let go both barrels and dropped the Pittsburgh playboy early in the tenth, Fritzie was no more hurt than you'd be if you ran around a corner and bumped into another fellow. Like a brainy boxer, the youngest of Smoky Town's five flying Zivics was figuring on taking a count—and a rest.

But Donovan stepped in and called it off after 31 seconds of that round even as the flat-nosed flailer was struggling to his feet. It marked only the second time in 10 years of trouping with the thumpers that a knockout was scored against Zivic.

Fritzie needed no help to walk to his corner, almost in tears from what he and a lot of booing customers thought was an unfair finish.

* * *

"Gee," he told his handlers, "when I was just about slaughtering Henry Armstrong and taking his title away a year ago, Donovan wasn't in such a hurry to call technical knockout. I wasn't hurt here, so why should he do it to me?"

Rupanovic Sets Westie-D Pace

Jake Rupanovic rolled a 549 total to pace the Westinghouse "D" bowling league at Colony alleys last night. His teammate, Thomas, turned in the league's high game of 213, then dropped to 117 in the second game.

Winbigler and Dietzel Set Pace Scoring 23 Points Between Them

By REX HESS, News-Journal Sport Editor.

MANSFIELD TYGERS chalked up their sixth victory of the basketball season, last night, and their sixth in the last seven starts, as they edged the not-so-peaceful Quakers of New Philadelphia 40 to 36 before the season's largest crowd at the high school gym.

It was a wild, rough, and fast battle with the score close all

3—In Memoriam

IN MEMORY
Of our dear husband and father, Harry C. Lawrence, who passed away 1 year ago today, Jan. 17.
The Golden Gates were opened wide.
A gentle voice said "Come"
And Angels from the other side
Welcomed our loved one home.
A precious one from us has gone.
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home.
Which never can be filled.
God in his wisdom has recalled,
The boon his love had given,
And though the body slumbers here
The soul is safe in heaven.

FIVE PER CENT INCREASE SEEN IN FARM PRICES

Fractional Changes Obscure Market Trends In Short Trading Session.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Fractional price changes either way continued to obscure trends in today's early stock market proceedings.

Boardrooms studied the report of the bureau of agricultural economics which forecast that the general level of farm prices in 1942 would rise only about 5 per cent above the apparent present average.

A somewhat similar increase in prices of industrial products also was predicted by the federal agency.

Not so pleasing, however, was the estimate of the national industrial conference board that the cost of living in December was about 8 per cent above the comparable 1940 month, with food costs up some 18 per cent.

Hollywood Sound Stages Are Saddened at Death of Beloved Actress.

Then he rushed blindly from the house, raced back to the airport and chartered a plane for Las Vegas, Nev., even as two officials of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer hastened to catch up with him.

Miss Lombard not only was loved but was respected as a straight-shooter. Every grip, every property boy, every commissary waitress adored her for she had the common touch, the common speech and never for a minute forgot that they were fellow workers.

She was thoughtful considerate, always joyous and bouncing, full of pranks and risque stories And she was frank to the point of treason in a land where frankness is not valued too highly

She and Gable made the finest married team in Hollywood.

Since then wedding they had spent every possible minute together

She was the movie beauty who startled the town a couple of years ago by announcing that she paid her taxes with a smile on the theory that she was buying a sizeable interest in what she liked to call "the best damned land there is."

U. S. Pays Tribute To Carole Lombard

WASHINGTON —(INS)— In an unusual tribute, the treasury department today officially announced that Carole Lombard, famed movie actress, had lost her life in the service of her country

Carlton Duffus, who has charge of special activities in the treasury's defense stamp drive said that Miss Lombard would have been riding on a train instead of the ill-fated TWA plane that crashed last night near Las Vegas, Nev. had she not consented to aid the government's efforts to raise funds

"It's a TWA plane and I can't find any signs of life," he radioed.

TWA officials immediately left Los Angeles headquarters in a special plane for Las Vegas to investigate.

The spot where the plane crashed is one of the most rugged in Nevada, with few roads leading to the scene of the crash.

Officials said that visibility must have been extremely bad as Capt. Wayne Williams, the pilot, had missed clearing the mountain by only one hundred feet, according to reports.

A ground crew headed by W. E. Baker was organized at Boulder City and left immediately for the area of the crash.

Officials at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer said that Miss Lombard, her mother and Winkler, left Los Angeles last Wednesday to take part in the Indiana defense celebration, where more than $2,000,000 in defense bonds was sold through the efforts of the screen star.

TWA officials said they understood that four other passengers had left the plane at Albuquerque, N. M., the last stop before Las Vegas They were identified as J. Squigeti, Mrs C B. Randner, Florence Sawyer and a Miss Johnson.

The pilot, Captain Williams, of Reseda, Calif., came to California from Kansas City two months ago. The first officer was Morgan A. Gillette, Los Angeles, and the stewardess was Alice Getz, address unavailable.

The transport was on a regularly scheduled flight, due in Los Angeles last evening.

Born Carol Jane Peters in Ft. Wayne, Ind., on Oct. 6. 1909. Miss Lombard was a veteran of the movies.

She started her career with Fox, playing dramatic roles, but was only moderately successful.

Later she switched to the Mack Sennett studios, where she became a "glamor girl," but still she failed to reach the peaks of popularity which she won later with Paramount and R-K-O as a light comedienne.

It was at Paramount that she met both William Powell, her first husband, and Gable, her second.

For some time Miss Lombard has been free-lancing in Hollywood. She was scheduled to start work Monday on a Columbia picture, "He Kissed the Bride," with Melvyn Douglas.

Clark Gable, motion picture star and husband of the actress, was reported to have been awaiting her arrival at a Los Angeles airport when the plane crashed. A later report said he was en route to Las Vegas in a private plane.

A searching party of veteran mountain climbers left immediately for the scene of the crash. Sergeant Robert Owens, night commander of the Las Vegas police, who is familiar with the Table mountain terrain, said the crash site could be reached only by horseback. He reported 30 horesmen left Las Vegas by 8 p. m. (MST) but would not reach the crash spot for hours.

The glow of the burning plane —or perhaps a fire it set in timberland adjoining the crash site —could be seen from Las Vegas at 11 30 p. m. (MST), four hours after the crash.

"Artillery was active during the day, harassing the enemy's forward elements in Gemas.

"On the western part of the front the enemy succeeded in getting a footing on the south bank of the Muar river.

"Reports now received show that raids made by enemy aircraft on Singapore yesterday caused no damage or casualties.

"Yesterday fighter and bomber aircraft of the Far East command carried out further attacks on enemy transports on the Gemas-Tampin road. They destroyed a large number of vehicles and damaged others.

"Enemy aircraft raided the Singapore area today. About 20 aircraft participated in the first attack and more than 50 in the second. One enemy plane was shot down, two probably were shot down and two were damaged by our fighters.

"Preliminary reports show civilian casualties were about 150."

The new communique was issued after expectations arose for a major battle between the Jap invadlers and the British and Australian defenders.

Meanwhile, the Aussies at the front still were harrying the Japanese.

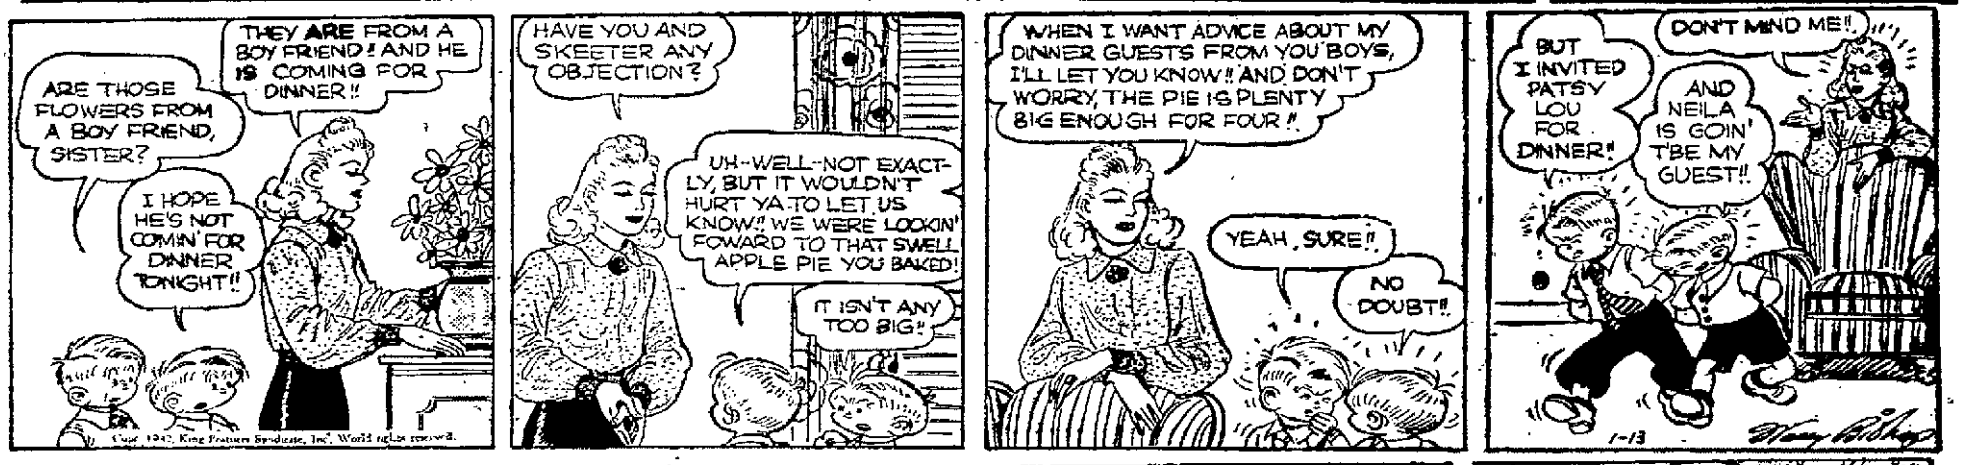
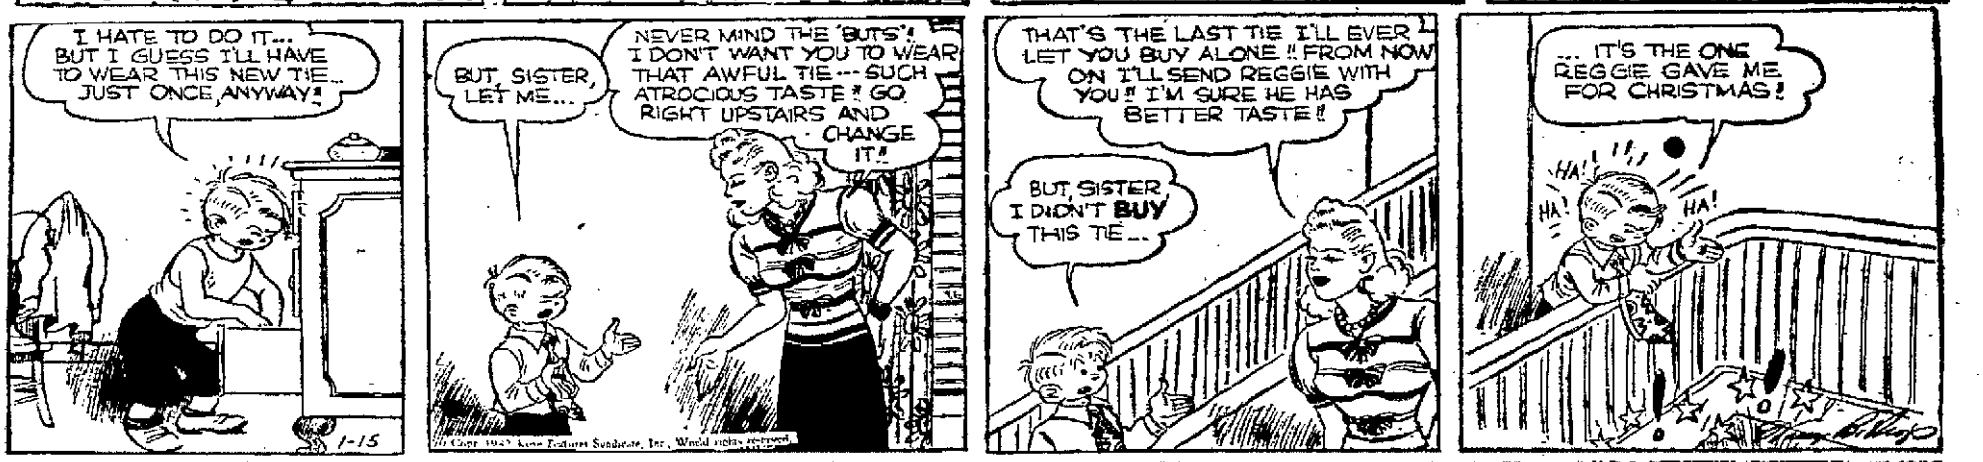
MUGGS McGINNIS

OH, BOY!--RAIN! MAYBE SISTER WILL LET ME STAY HOME FROM SCHOOL TODAY!
I CAN HAVE A LOT OF FUN PLAYIN' WITH THE ELECTRIC TRAINS 'N STUFF I GOT FOR CHRISTMAS!
SISTER IT'S RAININ' HARD! HOW ABOUT LETTIN' ME STAY HOME! IT'LL GIVE ME A CHANCE TO GET SOME USE OUT OF THOSE THINGS I GOT FOR CHRISTMAS!!
I THINK I CAN ARRANGE THAT, AND LET YOU GO TO SCHOOL, TOO!
1-12

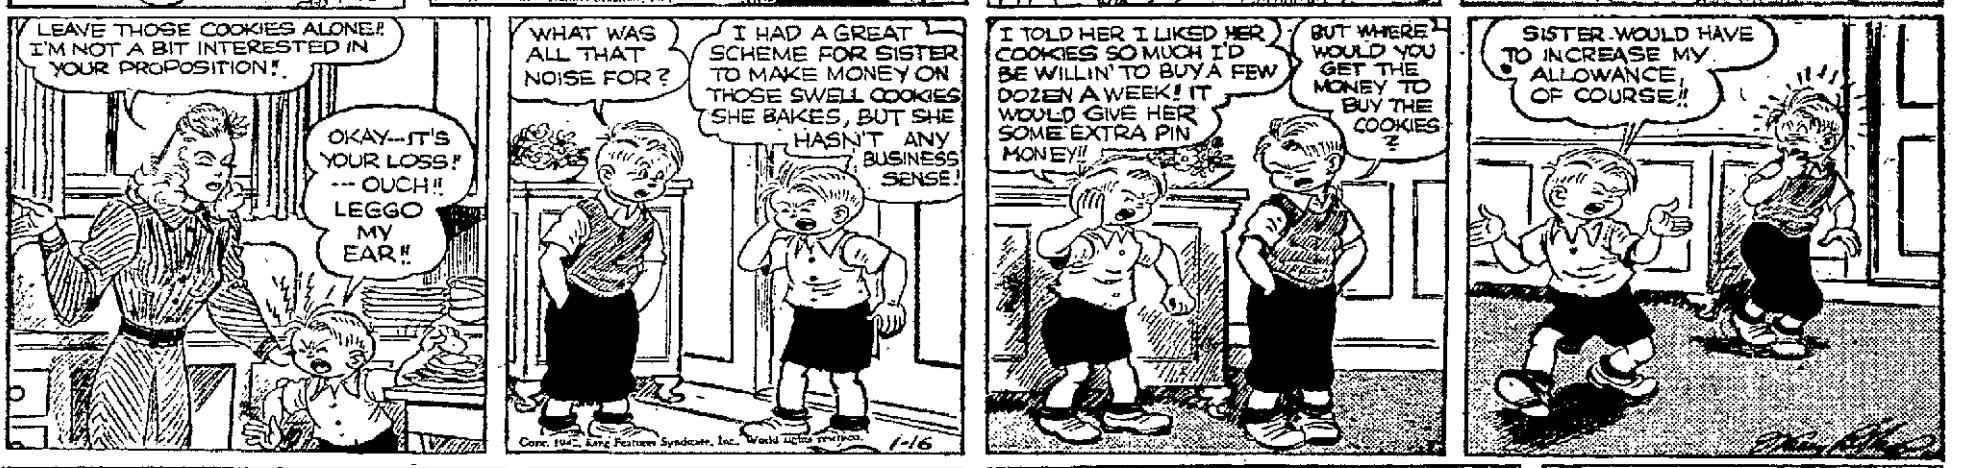


ARE THOSE FLOWERS FROM A BOY FRIEND, SISTER?
THEY ARE FROM A BOY FRIEND! AND HE IS COMING FOR DINNER!!
I HOPE HE'S NOT COMIN' FOR DINNER TONIGHT!!
HAVE YOU AND SKEETER ANY OBJECTION?
UH--WELL--NOT EXACTLY, BUT IT WOULDN'T HURT YA TO LET US KNOW!! WE WERE LOOKIN' FOWARD TO THAT SWELL APPLE PIE YOU BAKED!
IT ISN'T ANY TOO BIG!!
WHEN I WANT ADVICE ABOUT MY DINNER GUESTS FROM YOU BOYS, I'LL LET YOU KNOW!! AND DON'T WORRY, THE PIE IS PLENTY BIG ENOUGH FOR FOUR!!
YEAH, SURE!!
NO DOUBT!!
BUT I INVITED PATSY LOU FOR DINNER!
DON'T MIND ME!!
AND NEILA IS GOIN' T'BE MY GUEST!!
1-13

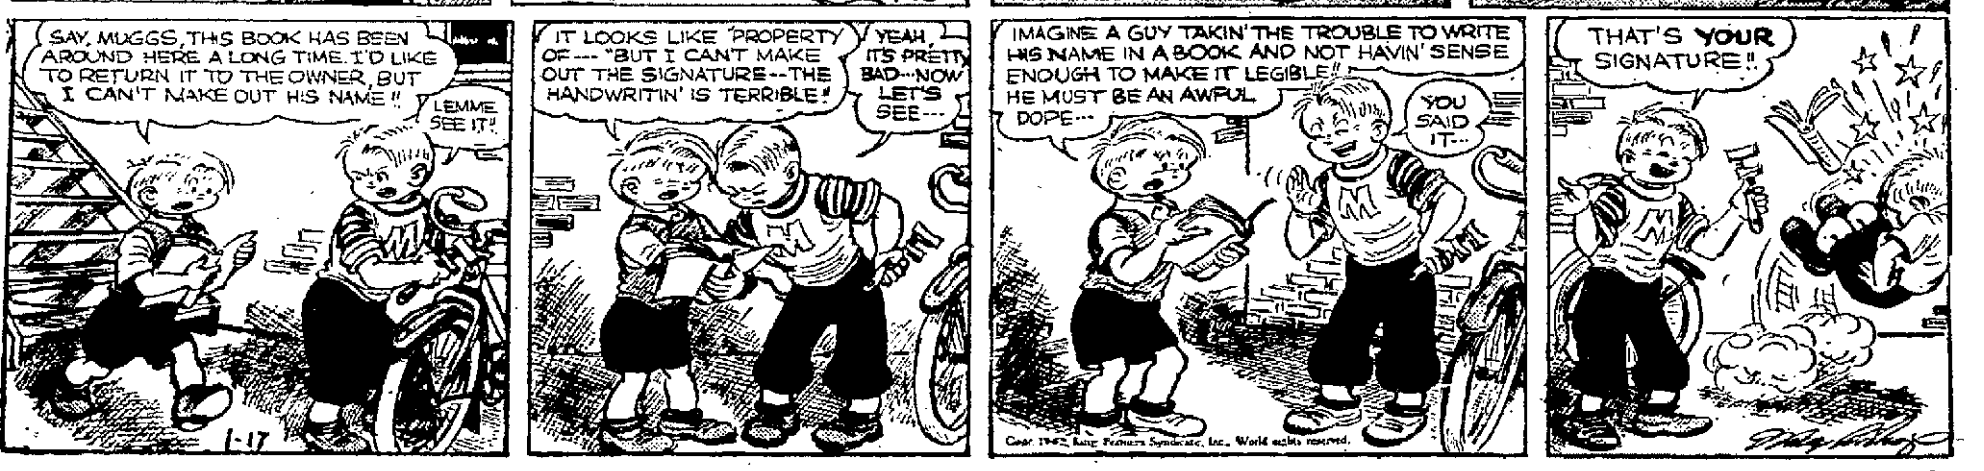
HEY, FELLOWS, AIN'T THIS SNOW SWELL? THE WAY IT'S COMIN' DOWN IT'LL SOON BE A FOOT DEEP!!
YOU'RE TELLIN' US?
HOW ABOUT GOIN' SKIIN' LATER?
WE'RE GOIN' TO THE HARDWARE STORE! WHEN SISTER SAW THE SNOW IT REMINDED HER OF SOMETHIN' WE NEEDED!!
YOUR MOTHER WAS AT OUR HOUSE, AND SHE SAYS SHE'S GOIN' T'SEND YOU FOR ONE, TOO!!
OH! BOY, WHAT'RE YA GOIN' T'BUY--- A NEW SLEIGH?
NO--- A SNOW-SHOVEL!
1-14



I HATE TO DO IT... BUT I GUESS I'LL HAVE TO WEAR THIS NEW TIE... JUST ONCE, ANYWAY!
1-15
BUT, SISTER, LET ME...
NEVER MIND THE 'BUTS'! I DON'T WANT YOU TO WEAR THAT AWFUL TIE--- SUCH ATROCIOUS TASTE! GO RIGHT UPSTAIRS AND CHANGE IT!
THAT'S THE LAST TIE I'LL EVER LET YOU BUY ALONE!! FROM NOW ON I'LL SEND REGGIE WITH YOU!! I'M SURE HE HAS BETTER TASTE!!
BUT, SISTER I DIDN'T BUY THIS TIE---
... IT'S THE ONE REGGIE GAVE ME FOR CHRISTMAS!
HA! HA! HA!



LEAVE THOSE COOKIES ALONE!! I'M NOT A BIT INTERESTED IN YOUR PROPOSITION!!
OKAY--IT'S YOUR LOSS! --- OUCH!! LEGGO MY EAR!!
WHAT WAS ALL THAT NOISE FOR?
I HAD A GREAT SCHEME FOR SISTER TO MAKE MONEY ON THOSE SWELL COOKIES SHE BAKES, BUT SHE HASN'T ANY BUSINESS SENSE!
1-16
I TOLD HER I LIKED HER COOKIES SO MUCH I'D BE WILLIN' TO BUY A FEW DOZEN A WEEK! IT WOULD GIVE HER SOME EXTRA PIN MONEY!!
BUT WHERE WOULD YOU GET THE MONEY TO BUY THE COOKIES?
SISTER WOULD HAVE TO INCREASE MY ALLOWANCE, OF COURSE!!



SAY, MUGGS, THIS BOOK HAS BEEN AROUND HERE A LONG TIME. I'D LIKE TO RETURN IT TO THE OWNER, BUT I CAN'T MAKE OUT HIS NAME!!
LEMME SEE IT!
1-17
IT LOOKS LIKE 'PROPERTY OF---' "BUT I CAN'T MAKE OUT THE SIGNATURE--THE HANDWRITIN' IS TERRIBLE!
YEAH, IT'S PRETTY BAD--NOW LET'S SEE---
IMAGINE A GUY TAKIN' THE TROUBLE TO WRITE HIS NAME IN A BOOK AND NOT HAVIN' SENSE ENOUGH TO MAKE IT LEGIBLE!! HE MUST BE AN AWFUL DOPE---
YOU SAID IT...
THAT'S YOUR SIGNATURE!!

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

GLORYOSKY, ZERO - ISN'T IT GRAND? NOW THEY LET ME MAKE UP MY OWN BED - ALL BY MYSELF, WITH NOBODY HELPIN' ME
YOU GOTTA BE AWFUL CAREFUL, 'CAUSE WHEN THE INSPECTOR COMES 'ROUND, IF EVERYTHING ISN'T JUST RIGHT, YOU GOTTA MAKE THE BED ALL OVER AGAIN
MR. OLIVER SEZ, " IF YOU'RE AN ORPHAN, YOU JUST GOTTA DO EVERY JOB RIGHT, IF YOU WANNA GET SOME PLACE" -
DARRELL McCLURE
AN' MR OLIVER SEZ, "IT DON'T MATTER WHAT THE JOB IS - IF YOU LEARN HOW TO DO IT JUST A TINY LITTLE BETTER THAN THE OTHER FELLOW, YOU ALWAYS GET ALONG OKAY"
NICE GOING, ANNIE - YOU WERE KIND OF SLOW LEARNING HOW TO MAKE BIRD-HOUSES - BUT NOW THAT YOU'VE LEARNED, YOU ARE BEGINNING TO SPEED UP
THANKS, JIMMY - I KNOW I'M A DUMB OX, BUT I GUESS YOU COULD TEACH ANYONE HOW TO DO ANYTHING
G'WAN - I COULDN'T TEACH A KITTEN HOW TO DRINK MILK
OH, YES, YOU COULD - AT FIRST IT TOOK ME ALL DAY TO MAKE ONE HOUSE - NOW, EVERY DAY I MAKE A LITTLE SUB-DIVISION FULL OF BIRD-HOUSES -
DARRELL McCLURE
THEN MAYBE WHEN THE BIRDS MOVE INTO THE SUB-DIVISION, THEY'LL THINK THE LITTLE HOUSES ARE SWELL - AN' THAT WILL MAKE 'EM SO HAPPY THEY'LL SING, "THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME"
IT'S ILLEGAL FOR YOU TO HIRE CHILDREN UNDER SIXTEEN YEARS OLD IN THIS COUNTY!!
PARDON ME, SIR - I NEVER HIRED A CHILD IN MY LIFE
BUT ALL THOSE KIDS -
THIS IS MY RESIDENCE - EVERYONE IN THE PLACE, YOUNG AND OLD, IS MY GUEST - THERE IS NEVER A THOUGHT OF PAYING MY GUESTS FOR DOING ME THE HONOR OF SHARING MY HOME -
NATURALLY, THEY ARE ALL FREE AGENTS - FREE TO COME AND GO AT ANY TIME - IF THEY ENJOY DOING SOMETHING USEFUL AND EDUCATIONAL, IT DOES NOT MEAN THEY ARE BREAKING ANY LAW
WELL, I'M NOT A LAWYER - I'LL HAVE TO CHECK UP ON THIS, BUT I'M WARNING YOU, DON'T TRY TO PULL ANY FUNNY BUSINESS ON ME!!
DARRELL McCLURE
NOW, DON'T YOU WORRY YOUR LITTLE HEAD ABOUT IT - I'VE BEEN HERE FOR TEN YEARS AND AT FIRST, I WAS ALWAYS WORRYING 'BOUT SOMETHING DREADFUL THAT WAS GOING TO HAPPEN TO US -
NOW, I'VE STOPPED WORRYING, AS I KNOW ANY TIME TROUBLE COMES ALONG, MR OLIVER WILL TAKE CARE OF IT - HE ALWAYS HAS, UP TO NOW
BUT I HEARD THE MAN SAY TO MR OLIVER THAT IT WAS AGAINST THE LAW FOR KIDS TO WORK, UNLESS THEY WERE SIXTEEN YEARS OLD - AN' THE MAN LOOKED AWFUL MAD
DARRELL McCLURE
I DON'T KNOW OR CARE WHAT THE MAN SAID - I DON'T KNOW ANYTHING ABOUT LAWS BUT I DO KNOW ABOUT MR. OLIVER, AND YOU CAN TAKE MY WORD FOR IT, YOU HAVE NOTHING TO WORRY ABOUT GEE, I'M GLAD THE DINNER BELL RANG - I'M AWFUL HUNGRY - NOW WHAT ARE YOU LAFFIN' AT?
HA, HA, HA, HA, HA, HA
I'M LAUGHING AT THAT FUNNY WOODPECKER - IT HEARD THE DINNER-BELL, TOO - NOW IT'S STARTING TO EAT A TREE - HA, HA, HA, HA, HA
HONEST, HANNA - WOODPECKERS DON'T EAT TREES - THEY JUST EAT WORMS THAT HIDE INSIDE THE TREES -
HA, HA, HA
WOULDN'T IT BE FUNNY, IF I ATE LIKE A WOODPECKER AND HAMMERED RAT-A TAT-TAT ON THE PLATE WITH MY NOSE BEFORE I COULD PICK UP A BEAN??
HA, HA, HA, HA
PLEASE, HANNA - STOP LAFFIN' OR WE'LL BE LATE FOR DINNER
DARRELL McCLURE
1-16
NOW, MY WEEK AS TEACHER HAS ENDED - I WANT TO THANK YOU ALL FOR TREATING ME JUST LIKE I WAS A REGULAR, GROWN-UP TEACHER - IN THIS ENVELOP IS THE NAME OF OUR TEACHER FOR NEXT WEEK -
- MISS ANNIE ROONEY!
WHO? YOU MEAN ME??
HONEST, ZERO, I'M THE LUCKIEST KID IN THE WHOLE WORLD - WHEN I HEARD I WAS GONNA BE TEACHER NEXT WEEK, I ACTED LIKE A BAWL BABY AN' ALL THE KIDS WAS LAFFIN' AT ME -
DARRELL McCLURE
1-17
BUT I WAS TOO HAPPY TO CARE, 'CAUSE I KNOW THEY'RE ALL SWELL KIDS AN' I LOVE 'EM - BUT JUST IMAGINE ME BEIN' A TEACHER - IT SEEMS JUST LIKE I WAS THE PRINCESS IN A FAIRY TALE !!
